UNL's New Dance Festival scheduled at Kimball Hall

Eleven students will dance this weekend at UNL's New Dance Festival in work choreographed by two professional guest artists.

At the festival, scheduled for Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. at Kimball Hall, the students will present "Little Wars," a piece by Edward Burgess and Lane Sayles.

Burgess and Sayles are at UNL's department of theatre, arts and dance in conjunction with a two-week dance residency sponsored by UNL with support from the Nebraska Arts Council. Students auditioned Jan. 11 to dance in the festival.

The student performers are Paul Buresh, Jeanne Finnigan, Greta Gage, Julie Gartner, Tamara Gemar, Vicki Grossenbacher, Joette Haase, Julie Hartnett, Kent Lindemer, Traci Nelson and Jackie Wheeler.

Many of the "Little Wars" dancers and Michelle Cacioppo, Shelly Curry, Donna Schieffer and Kim Schureman will perform "Cosmos," choreographed by UNL dance instructor Nancy Brestel.

Curry, Gage and Gemar also will dance in "Gravity Angel's Toast," choreographed by UNL dance director Jerry Bevington.

Bevington and Brestel also will dance

in "Little Wars."

Burgess and Sayles will perform "Leftovers," choreographed by Sayles and set to music by Pat Metheny. They also will present the world-premiere showing of "Three Duets" by Burgess, set to piano music by Enrique Granados.

Bevington said the New Dance Festival "aims to present modern choreography in the traditions of New York's Brooklyn Academy of Music's 'Next Wave' dance series."

Tickets are on sale at Temple Box Office, Kimball Box Office and the Nebraska Union. They are $6 general admission and $4 for UNL students.
