

Chesterfield's

PRESENTS

COMEDY NIGHT
Rollin' Ray
8:30 tonight

Lower Level Gunny's

13th & Q

Let us help you celebrate!

BRIDAL EXPO '86
 this Sunday, March 2nd

11:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.

Nebraska East Union—Great Plains Room

FREE ADMISSION

1:00 showing—Holway Tux Fashions / 2:30 showing—Sassi's & Max I. Walker

W.C.'s DOWNTOWN

WEDNESDAY NITES 8-1

"LOWEST PITCHER PRICES IN TOWN"

1228 "P"

SPEND THIS SUMMER STUDYING ABROAD

Students and faculty student-advisors interested in summer study abroad should immediately explore the possibilities for the summer of 1986. Many study abroad programs offered are sponsored by U.S. academic institutions and offer regular university-level course work which can usually be transferred to UNL. Of the many summer programs available, a select number of them are listed here. Most prices below include tuition (T), room (R), and all or most board (B), but not airfare.

AUSTRIA.

Goethe Institute, University of Salzburg. Intensive German, beginning through advanced, (about 5 cr). July 6-August 16. $1050 TRB. Must apply by April 15.

CANADA.

University of Laval, Quebec City. Intensive French, beginning through advanced, (6 cr). July 7-August 15. $750 TRB. Must apply by May 1.

ENGLAND.

Cambridge University. History, English, Economics, Art History, Political Thought (3-6 cr). July 7-August 1 term, $860 TRB; August-3-16 term, $490 TRB; July 6-26 special English Literature term, $700 TRB.

University of Kansas program in London, Exeter, York, and Cambridge. British History, History of Art, English, Humanities (8 cr, graduate credit possible). July 18-August 12. $2,100 TRB and travel within Britain. Must apply by April 1.

Berkeley School of Arts and Sciences. Study of selected urban and rural landscapes. Much time in field. Recommended for underclassmen. July 1-August 7. $2295 TRB and travel within Britain. Must apply by late March.

Trent University (Canada) summer program at Keble College, Oxford. English Literature, Drama, Art, Political Studies, History (6 cr). July 6-August 10, $2195 TRB.

GREECE.

SUNY-Brockport program in Athens and Crete. Greek Mythology (3 cr). May 19-June 9 or June 24-July 15. About $1,695 TRB and travel from NYC and within Greece. Must apply by May 30.

HUNGARY.

Karl Marx University, Budapest. Economics, Sociology, Political Science (6 cr). Open to graduate students only. July 4-August 15. $1125 TRB and optional language instruction and field trips. Must apply by April 18.

IRELAND.

Berkeley School of Arts and Sciences. Landscapes and People in Ireland. Much time in field. Recommended for underclassmen. June 17-July 12. $1750 TRB and travel in Ireland. Must apply by late March.

JAMAICA.

University of the West Indies, Kingston. Culture and Society of Jamaica (3 cr). July 20-August 9. $871 TRB. Must apply by April 1.

JAPAN.

Sanno College, Tokyo. International Seminar on Japanese Business and Management. June 15-July 19. $2500 TRB and local transportation.

MEXICO.

Instituto Tecnológico y de Estudios Superiores de Monterrey, Monterrey. Intensive Spanish, beginning through advanced; courses on Mexican history, art, and literature (3-6 cr). June 8-July 18. $870 TRB. Must apply by May 28.

Summer Language Institute in Guadalajara. Improve Spanish language skills (must have 5 semester of College Spanish), (up to 8 cr through University of Kansas). June 4-July 26. $970 TRB. Must apply by April 15.

PORTUGAL.

Coimbra. Intensive Portuguese, intermediate through advanced, (up to 10 cr through University of Northern Iowa). June 14-Aug. 14. $1600 TRB and tours in Portugal.

SWEDEN.

Uppsala University. Intensive Swedish, beginning through advanced, and selected courses in English. June 8-July 18 term, $986 TRB; June 22-August 15 term, $1227 TRB. Must apply by May 15.

YUGOSLAVIA.

Zagreb University. Summer Language Institute. Intensive Serbo-Croatian, beginning through advanced, plus lecture on Slavic folklore (6 cr language, 3 cr folklore). June 27-August 3. $600 TRB and excursions. Must apply by March 28.

For more complete information and applications, contact
 Professor Richard E. Lonsdale, Director:
INSTITUTE FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDIES
 1237 "R" St. (0220), PHONE 472-3076

Husker seniors reflect on end of their NU basketball careers

By Jeff Apel
 Senior Reporter

Barring a possible home NIT-tournament berth, the four seniors on the Nebraska basketball team will play for the last time on their home court Wednesday night against Colorado at the Bob Devaney Sports Center.

Dave Hoppen, Harvey Marshall, John Matzke and Chris Logan — each in his final year of collegiate eligibility — will wind down home careers at Nebraska against the Buffaloes.

Although each has contributed in different ways, Nebraska assistant coach

Tom Baack said the team will miss all four players.

"It's always tough to see them leave," Baack said. "Sometimes you wish they could stay around forever, but you know they just can't."

Baack said it will be particularly tough for the Cornhusker program to say good-bye to Hoppen, who has set 16 Nebraska records during his three and one-half years as a Husker.

"Dave has meant so much to our program," Baack said. "He's brought some national attention to our program and he is such a great kid that we are really going to miss him."

Hoppen, a four-year letterman for Nebraska, finished as the Huskers' all-time leading scorer with 2,167 points.

Although his hopes of being Nebraska's first ever All-American went down the drain when he injured his knee earlier this season against Colorado, Hoppen said he is happy with his career at Nebraska.

Hoppen said he still hopes he has a future in the National Basketball Association, despite his injury.

If a professional basketball career doesn't work out, Hoppen said, he will use the business degree he is earning to find a job.

"I've still got a year to go on it, but I plan on getting a job in the business field one day," he said. "Right now, though, I'm looking at a future in the NBA. My knee is coming along fine, so I'm confident that I will be able to make a successful comeback."

Matzke, who is from Lincoln, said it really hasn't sunk in yet that the Huskers' game against Colorado on Wednesday will be his last Husker game.

"The season just goes by so fast that it seems like it just started," he said. "There were always days during those five years that it gets difficult because you don't feel like going to practice but, overall, I have really enjoyed it here."

Matzke said he sees Nebraska's 1983 trip to the National Invitation Tournament — in which the Huskers went to the final four before losing to DePaul — and the Huskers' 67-50 victory over then-No. 1 Missouri in 1982 as the highlights of his career.

Although he didn't play in either game, he said just being associated with the Nebraska program was enough to give him a special feeling.

"I remember the NIT game afterwards. All the fans were out on the court, and the band was playing 'New York, New York,'" Matzke said. "I like to remember the Missouri game because we were picked to lose so bad because we didn't have any height, but we knocked them off."

Marshall said Nebraska's 66-64 victory over Oklahoma last week is the highlight of his two-year Cornhusker career.

The Sooner-Husker game was special, not only because Oklahoma entered the game as the No. 10 team in the nation, but also because his parents were there, he said.

"That was the first time my parents had seen me play since college," Marshall said. "It meant a lot to me, since we were the underdog, but we upset Oklahoma."

"The fact that we have gone 3-3 this year without Dave (Hoppen) in the lineup has shown people that we can win without him," he said. "We read the papers and saw what people said about us when Hoppen went down. But we wanted to show people that we had as good as athletes as anyone else, which I think we have proven."

"We've shown people that we were more than just one franchise player," Logan said. "Dave was averaging around 25 points per game, but we've been able to pick up his scoring slack."

Logan said the major reason for his success is his devotion to the classroom.

Last year, Logan was declared academically ineligible for the second semester after playing in only five games for Nebraska.

"I understand where Coach Iba was coming from when he didn't play me last season," Logan said. "He didn't want to play somebody who wasn't going to be around second semester."

Logan said that he isn't sure what he will do after his Husker career ends. He says a professional basketball career is in the back of his mind.

Matzke Mark Davis/Daily Nebraskan

Marshall David Creamer/Daily Nebraskan