

Replacements at Union on Tuesday

4. Replacements for whatever it is you're doing Tuesday night. Filing your nails, figuring up your taxes, mailing thank you cards to the people who put you up over spring break, recovering from an intense fear of Florida hotel balconies, whatever . . .

What was that big pile of horse offal rock critics tried to feed us a few years back? "I have seen the future of rock 'n' roll, and it is Bruce Springsteen." Pay no mind. The Replacements do the best summing up of the state of the rock 'n' roll union you'll ever hear.

The radio in heaven plays the Replacements all day long. You wake up to their version of Kiss' "Black Diamond," "Little Mascara" gets you through the shower, for breakfast you get "Gary's got a Boner," and for lullabies at night "Here Comes a Regular" and "Androgynous" put out the big light.

It's not that I think the Replacements are the best single voice our music has to offer today, it's just that when I listen to them all the blood goes to my brain, I want to be Paul Westerberg and sing his perfect lines. I want to be a drunken rock 'n' roll orphan in America, writing songs with some passionate reflex.

Last time the Replacements did Lincoln, they only played 40 minutes. Now, with the success of their first major corporate record release, "Tim," and a flaming TV debut on "Saturday Night Live," The Replacements may give us a bigger dose. If they don't, I guess we only get what we deserve.

In any case, burn your radio, before the Replacements do it for you.

The Replacements play in the Nebraska Union Centennial Ballroom Tuesday night. Tickets are $9 in advance, $11 the day of the show.
