

Coleman to stay at Kansas State

By The Associated Press

Norris Coleman, after visiting five of the top basketball programs in the nation where he could have played at once, will remain at Kansas State and sit out a year, it was announced Monday.

A 24-year-old Army veteran, Coleman led the nation's first-year players with more than 20 points a game as a K-State freshman. The NCAA ruled him ineligible in late February over a technicality from his high school transcript of 1979.

After K-State lost an appeal, Coleman visited Maryland, Virginia, Jacksonville, LSU and Kentucky. It was widely assumed the 6-foot-8 forward would transfer rather than stay at Kansas State and not play for a year.

"It's good news. It's great news," Kansas State Coach Lon Kruger told The Associated Press from his office in Manhattan, Kan. "I believe this speaks very well indeed for Norris and for Kansas State University."

Coleman, the Big Eight newcomer of the year, could not be reached, but issued a statement through the office of his attorney, Jeff Schemmel, in Topeka, Kan.

"I have spent a lot of time in the last 30 days looking at the options that are available to me in light of the NCAA's ruling concerning my eligibility," he said.
