Rush week complete; 476 women pledge

By Rob Fraass
Staff Reporter

Saturday saw the end of a week of excitement and tough decisions for 476 pledges when UNL sororities selected their new members for the 1986-87 school year.

In recent years, the numbers of students in sororities and fraternities have increased nationwide after a decline in the late '60s, said Jayne Wade Anderson, director of the Panhellenic Association. However, the sorority population has remained constant over the years, she said.

"Nebraska has always had a strong sorority program" Anderson said. "In the 20-plus years I've been here, it's never declined."

During Rush Week, pledges learn about the sororities' programs, organizations, activities, and goals for academic achievement, Anderson said.

"Basically, it's a getting-to-know-each-other process," she said.

The time frame for rush was changed this year. For the past two years, rush has been held over the Labor Day week end rather than before school. The scheduling has fluctuated from year to year and Anderson said she didn't know if the time change will be permanent.

"I'm sure some liked the change, while others didn't because of other activities they had that week," she said.

Erin Bausch, a newly pledged member of Kappa Alpha Theta, said that sororities provide students with an alternative lifestyle to residence hall life.

"You meet so many people from so many different sororities that it's tough and confusing to decide," she said at a post-pledging celebration.

For Kappa Alpha Theta pledge Erika Erskine, the people were the deciding factor.

"I just stuck with the people I liked," she said. "I'm really looking forward to a lot of fun and life-long friendships."

Get the new AMSTRAD Word Processor.

It's complete, it's easy to use, and it's only $799

Stop suffering from the limitations of a typewriter. AMSTRAD puts the power of word processing within your reach. For less than you ever imagined.

The new AMSTRAD system comes with everything you need to start working right away: high-resolution monitor, built-in disk drive, professional keyboard, correspondence-quality printer, and friendly software.

Setting up the new AMSTRAD Word Processor is easy: Just plug it in, follow our easy instructions, and within an hour you'll be creating simple letters (typing probably took you longer to learn).

You'll quickly appreciate the speed and convenience of working on the new AMSTRAD Word Processor. See the page before it's printed.

Edit one document while printing another. Move and remove words. Print your draft at 90 characters per second in any of the 53 typestyles. Store 140 pages (no typewriter comes close). Whether you work in your home, office, or dorm, now you can take hours of work out of paperwork. So before you make a real mistake, call us for the AMSTRAD dealer nearest you:
