Omaha group at heart of original area designs which feature comfort

Paul Vonderlage/Daily Nebraskan

One of Christina Narwicz's designs from her "Baby Snakes" collection. Narwicz's other fashions include soft-knit dresses, two-piece outfits and full-flared skirts. The clothes were on display last week at Omaha's "Art Wear '86" show.

For the gentlemen, big pleated pants with narrow waistlines, inspired by Fred Astaire movies, and jackets with broad shoulders make every man look and feel his best. Black is currently the primary color in Ciemnoczolowski's menswear designs.

Narwicz's designs for "Baby Snakes" have a feeling of wearability and comfort with a different twist on current styles available in stores. Christina's soft knit dresses can be worn full and loose or pulled up to create the appearance of a two-piece shirt and top. Two-piece outfits are also available, dominated by full-flared skirts.

For all involved, hard work, long hours, and dedication to art were the prime forces in making the style show's success.

For the models, the day starts in the morning with choreography practice.

Beforehand, models may also meet with the individual designers to assure proper fittings for the garments. When purchased, the garments are altered to fit the new owner. Prices start at just $20 for some of these one-of-a-kind items and can go as high as $1,200 for the original artwear designs. For the designers, finding ideas for new clothing and constructing outfits takes weeks or months from start to finish.

Kemper said about $1,000 was needed to fund this particular show. This includes material and labor costs for light and sound technicians. But the volunteer labor from the models and makeup and hair designers minimize the costs.

All of the designs featured at the show, along with many others, can be purchased at "In Active Pursuit," 1046 Howard Street, in the Old Market Passageway. Store hours are from noon to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday; noon to 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 1 to 5 p.m. Sundays. All designs are originals, and the prices are very reasonable.

If groups such as "In Active Pursuit" catch on, the Midwest finally may have some of the talent here recognized. Until then, this creative and innovative group of designers can enjoy the distinction of being at the heart of original designs in the Midwest.
