Meggie.
I've seen you in Andrews. We had class together in Comp. 254 last year, but never met outside of class. We've talked once and said Hi once. I'm wondering, are you available? Or just being friendly? We're both English majors (God help Us!) so we have at least one thing in common. I would really like to know. Respond via personals or talk to me sometime in Andrews.
Guess Who

Anthony (Canada).
I tried to call and I went to Abel Hall. How can I say I'm sorry for Saturday night?

To: The innocent man alias Jon (NRC).
In "my life", I've been a "big shot" but you said "I like you just the way you are" People told you for the "longest time" to "tell her about it". You told yourself to continue "keeping the faith" because "she's got a way about her" and sometime on "52nd street" She'll hear the "piano-man" & that "modern women" will get tired of the "pressure" and realize that "it's always been a matter of trust". "I can't wait until the night" for some "careless talk" so I'll "leave a tender moment alone".
Love your "uptown girl" Wendy

K.
A bottle of wine and my place; A 6-pack and a cruise; A crowded bar and a table for two. You name it, I'm there.
P.

Be.
Did you think I would forget? Wait till Friday Night.
Love, Lance

Lynne.
Thank you for the Halloween ditty. I know you were trying to be witty. Too bad you didn't make it. Next time you'd better fake it. Try harder at the next contest that's slated. But while you're at it, don't let it be known that we're related. Sure, you might be cuter, but who's kidding. The brains went to the elder, as only is fitting.
Lisa

You're wishing for something that NEVER was true. You're such a *, I'd never do it with you! All the lies you've told your friends. They'll all haunt you in the end. You want it to happen some day. But you're not man enough, anyway! If you were it wouldn't matter. 'Cause to hit a homerun, you have to be a batter!!
Stacy

Am.
How can I thank you? How about a lonely country road to a haystack, with wine and peanut butter and jelly sandwiches. Sound festive, Country girl??
