Huskers shoot stars

By Rich Cooper
Staff Reporter

Nebraska's women's basketball team started off on the right foot Saturday night at the Bob Devaney Sports Center as they defeated the Red Star women's basketball club from Czechoslovakia, 67-62.

Nebraska coach Angela Beck said she was happy with her team's performance. The Cornhuskers were led by junior Maurtice Ivy's 29 points and sophomore Amy Stephen's 15 points.

"I thought it was a good team victory for our team. Red Star was a good team because they have won three out of their four games and played together for a long time," Beck said. "It wasn't a pretty victory, but it was good for the team because we have overcome a lot of obstacles."

Nebraska kept the lead throughout the game by as much as 13 points. In the first half, the Huskers jumped out to a 14-8 lead behind Ivy's 14 points.

Red Star with 13:11 left in the first half quickly closed down the lead to two points when Marijana Kostic scored on a layup. The Huskers then extended their lead to six points because of three straight fouls by Red Star. Red Star had 13 fouls in the first half.

Nebraska kept the six-point lead to lead at the half 32-27. Beck said that the overall team height of Red Star didn't give Nebraska many problems because of the Huskers' quickness.

"We were getting beat on the inside quite a bit," Beck said. "But we had good pressure on the ball, which forced them to take a lot of forced shots."

Beck said the Huskers ran the fast break well. She said Nebraska also converted well on defense from the fast break.

In the second half, behind the shooting of Stephens and Ivy, the Huskers extended their lead to 13 points when Stephanie Bolli hit two freethrows to put the Huskers ahead, 54-41.

Red Star battled back late in the second half to tie the game at 56. Stephens and Ivy continued to dominate the game as Stephens hit a 12-foot jump shot to put the game away with 2:49 left.

Red Star never was able to cut Nebraska's lead despite shooting 68 percent from the field in the second half while Nebraska shot only 46.4 percent.

Beck said since the next game for the Huskers isn't for two weeks they'll work more on defense.

"We need to work more on our secondary defenses," Beck said. "We are going to have to mix them up more to throw our opponents off."
