Carr leads NU past SIU

By The Associated-Press

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Brian Carr scored 19 points to lead Nebraska's starting five players in double figures as the Cornhuskers defeated Southern Illinois University 87-85 in non-conference basketball action Wednesday night.

Carr hit a three-pointer with 3 1/2 minutes to play to put the Cornhuskers up for good at 82-81. Bernard Day scored four of Nebraska's final five points to finish the game with 15.

Other Nebraska starters in double figures were Anthony Bailous with 16 points, Derrick Vick with 13 and Bill Jackman with 11.

The Salukis were led by Steve Middleton with a game-high 23 points. Randy House came off the bench to score 16 points, and Kal Nurnberger and Doug Novsek added 15 and 14 points, respectively.

SIU had the biggest lead in the game with 11-3 in the opening 2 1/2 minutes. But Nebraska rallied to tie it at 24 seven minutes later. The game was tied at 47 at halftime.

The Salukis suffered their first loss at home and their third straight loss this season for a record of 3-3. Nebraska evened their season mark at 2-2.

Team makes nationals

As most people know, the Huskers will be playing in the Sugar Bowl on Jan. 1 against Louisiana State. But another team will be playing for a national title in its own right.

The Warriors, by winning the all-university intramural football title in November, qualified for the University Flag Football National Championships in New Orleans.

Scott Grasmick, one of the Warriors' managers, said teams were selected on a first-come, first-serve basis.

"This is the first time a guys' team has been sent from here," Grasmick said. "All teams that won at their universities were invited, and from that, 72 slots were filled."

Grasmick said the team would be staying and playing at the University of New Orleans. The tournament will run from Dec. 26 to Jan. 2.

"They put the teams into groups of three and play round-robin tournaments among themselves," Grasmick said. "The top two teams then advance to a single elimination tournament."

Team members had to raise their own funds in order for the trip to be possible.

"We talked to the University Foundation, and they gave us $700," Grasmick said. "And D&D Distributors, since it is a Budweiser-sponsored tournament, gave us $250. We also got anywhere from $25 to $100 from local businesses."

UNL's Campus Recreation Office is paying for transportation and the $230 entry fee, Grasmick said.

The Warriors, who were also the 1985-86 all-university independent sports champions, will send an experienced team to New Orleans, Grasmick said.

Imming shoots for another year

By Kyle Schurman

Personal problems with last year's team nearly caused Nebraska women's point guard Stacy Imming to forgo basketball this season. However, after talking with new coach Angela Beck, she decided to play and again has become an important part of the team.

"Stacy's doing the things necessary for the team to win," Beck said. "She's a big reason why we're 5-1. We have three or four players who don't get a lot of recognition but deserve it and she's one of them."

Imming, a senior, is also glad she spoke with Beck before deciding whether to play this season.

"I'm happy with my play this year," Imming said. "Just as long as we're winning. I'm having fun. Since it's my last year, I want to help the team as much as I can. If we have a good record, we can bring in good players and get the program back on its feet."

Imming is averaging 10.7 points per game this season and has 22 assists, which is fifth on Nebraska all-time charts. She needs 15 more to move into fourth place and 78 more to capture the all-time lead. The record is within her reach, assistant sports information director Terry Beck said.

"If she plays the entire year like she has been, averaging nearly four assists per game, she could get it," Beck said.

Imming averaged more than nine points per game her freshman and junior years and had a career-high 12.7 points per game as a sophomore. She also had a career-high 117 assists that season.

Imming was moved to point guard this season — a move she said she is getting used to. Beck said that Imming's leadership abilities and her intensity have helped her to adjust more smoothly to the move.

"She's our quarterback on offense and on defense," Beck said. "She has done a real good job, especially considering she's just learning my system. She's producing points, but we could use a few more assists from her. Other than that, she's done everything I've needed."

"It has to be frustrating for her not being able to play where she'd want, but she's playing point guard to help the team. I enjoy coaching her. She is a quality person and a quality athlete," Beck said.

Imming, from Kearney, is an English and math education major. She said she would like to see the team hold onto its top-20 ranking and finish in the upper half of the Big Eight conference.
