ONLY 60 SEMESTER CREDIT HOURS NEEDED FOR OCS.

If you have 60 accredited semester hours, and can achieve a high score in a special aptitude test, you could be just 22 weeks from earning the gold bars of a second lieutenant in the Army Reserve. And ready to take on your first Reserve leadership assignment.

Qualify, and you'll attend an 8-week Basic Training Course, then go on to a 14-week Officer Candidate School (OCS) which will challenge you both mentally and physically. When you graduate, you'll receive your commission as an officer in the Army Reserve, and continue training in a branch Officer Basic Course. Then you'll return home to serve in a nearby Reserve unit—usually one weekend a month and two weeks annual training.

It's a great opportunity to gain the skills and begin the practice of the kind of leadership and management prized so highly by civilian employers.

You need not have completed your degree, just have 60 semester hours and a lot of ability and confidence, to qualify.

If you're interested in OCS, call:

ARMY RESERVE. BE ALL YOU CAN BE.
