Tigers roar past NU

By The Associated Press

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Junior guard Lynn Hardy led a balanced Missouri attack with 16 points as the Tigers defeated Nebraska 80-64 Wednesday night to move into a first-place tie in the Big Eight Conference with Kansas and Oklahoma.

The Tigers are now 18-9 overall and tied for the conference lead with the Jayhawks and Sooners at 8-3. Nebraska slipped to 15-9 and 5-6.

Missouri's Derrick Chievous, the Big Eight's leading scorer and 10th in the nation with a 25-point per game average, was held scoreless in the first half but finished with 12 points.

Lee Coward and Gary Leonard each had 15 points for the Tigers and Greg Church added a dozen.

Leonard scored eight points in the first five minutes to give the Tigers a 9-2 lead and they never trailed again. Missouri, which led by as many as 16 points in the first half, held a 33-21 advantage at halftime.

Nebraska sliced Missouri's lead to 50-45 with 9:15 remaining, but the Tigers outscored the Cornhuskers 10-4 over the next three minutes for a 60-49 advantage.

Anthony Bailous led Nebraska with 15 points.

Iowa 82, Ohio St. 80: Kevin Gamble hit a 15-foot jump shot with four seconds left as the No. 7 Hawkeyes won at Columbus, Ohio.

Gamble's shot from the left side came after Ohio State's Jay Burson, an 81 percent free-throw shooter, missed both ends of a two-shot foul situation with 15 seconds remaining.

Swimmer healthy after injury

Nebraska swimmer Erin Hurley has had some physical problems that have affected her performance this season, but she plans to rebound in time for the upcoming Big Eight Conference Championships, March 5 through 7, and NCAA Championships, March 19 through 21.

Hurley's problems began about 1 1/2 months ago when she started having shoulder pains.

"I have never ever had shoulder problems since I've been here," she said. "I guess it was tendinitis, but I had three weeks of terrible workouts. It really got to me. I didn't know how to handle it too well. I had never had a problem before. It started getting better and then it felt great for a week and then . . ."

Then Hurley and her roommates caught a virus, which slowed her for about a week. However, she said she feels better now.

"I'm healthy now and I'm feeling pretty good," Hurley said.

As evidence, Hurley turned in what she called her best performance of the season against Kansas Saturday. Against the Jayhawks, Hurley won the 200-yard breaststroke and was a member of the winning 400-yard medley relay team.

Ray Huppert, Nebraska women's swimming coach, said he thinks Hurley is back in form. He said he expects good things from her in the post-season.

"There was a rough period just recently where she was having some shoulder problems and some illness, but she's come back," Huppert said. "She's a quality swimmer."

Hurley, a junior nutrition major, came to Nebraska three seasons ago. As a freshman, she finished fifth nationwide in the 200-yard breaststroke and 12th in the 100-yard breaststroke, earning her All-American honors in both events.

During her sophomore season Hurley slipped slightly, finishing 15th in the 200 breast and 21st in the 100 breast.

"I hope to do my lifetime best times at Big Eights and then go even faster again at the NCAA's," she said. "I didn't have a very good year last year and I didn't swim as fast as I did my freshman year. It's time to hit."

In the Big Eight Championships, Hurley said, she wants to win the 100 breast and the 200 breast. She also hopes the two relay teams she swims on qualify for the NCAA meet.

"We were so close during our Husker Invitational in December," she said. "I feel really good about that. Our relays are looking really good."

Hurley came to Nebraska from Amherst Central High School in Snyder, N.Y., where she won four state swimming titles. She said a recruiting trip to Nebraska helped her decide to become a Husker.

"I really enjoyed the team members, and I was really impressed with Ray," she said. "He was so nice and personable."

"It seemed like I could help the program and they could help me a lot."

Hurley

That's why I signed."

As the Big Eight Championships approach, Hurley said, the team is preparing for another battle with rival Kansas.

"Everybody is getting the Big Eight fever. We're counting down the days," Hurley said. "This is where we hope to swim our fastest. People who feel like they have something to prove — myself included — that haven't swam as fast as they liked so far this season, we're all just shooting towards Big Eights. We want to just blow Kansas out of the pool. It could be really close or we have the potential to blow them away, and we'd really like to do that."

Similarities expected at Iowa meet

By Mark Derowitsch

The Iowa Quadrangular will be much like the matches the Nebraska women's tennis team played last weekend, Nebraska coach Kathy Hawkins said.

But there are two sides of the coin. On one hand, Drake defeated the Cornhuskers 6-3, and the Iowa Hawkeyes are much like Drake, Hawkins said.

But the two other teams in the two-day tournament — Northern Illinois and Western Illinois — play closer to Tulsa's style. Nebraska defeated Tulsa 8-1.

"Two teams are very similar to the style of play last weekend," Hawkins said. "Iowa will be a very straightforward team, but we are fortunate in that we play Western Illinois on Friday so we can have a warm-up for Iowa on Saturday."

Hawkins hopes the match with Western Illinois will pay off as well as Drake's "warm-up" match with Tulsa did before that team played the Huskers.

"The match with Tulsa definitely helped them," Hawkins said. "We were uptight to start the match, and they were loose and ready to go."

Hawkins said she wants the singles matches to improve this weekend. Against Drake, the Huskers won one of six matches played.

"We need to win three of the singles matches to win as a team," Hawkins said.

The Huskers will take their 4-2 dual record into this weekend, and Hawkins said she expects Nebraska to raise that mark.

"I'll be pleased if we come back with having won two out of the three matches," Hawkins said.
