Band marching to new director, to play more to student crowd

By Jane Hirt
 Staff Reporter

The University of Nebraska Cornhusker Marching Band will be stepping in a different direction this year under new band director Jay Kloecker, who was hired last June.

A band committee conducted a nationwide search and selected Kloecker, who received his masters degree in conducting at Florida State University. He was chosen from 25 applicants. He replaces Bill Ballenger, who accepted a band director's job at Oklahoma State.

Kloecker, 29, said he chose Nebraska because of the exposure the university has with its football team and marching band.

"This is a really good band," Kloecker said. "It's neat to have your first college job be at a large national university such as Nebraska."

Kloecker has five years of experience teaching high-school bands in Illinois and Kentucky, and was a graduate assistant with the marching and symphonic bands at Florida State.

Kloecker said he doesn't plan any major changes for the band, but "changes are bound to happen when new people come."

"The drills will have my touch to them," he said. "And we will become a little more crowd-oriented."

Kloecker said that his goal this year is to plan halftime shows that have a variety of tunes, each appealing to a different group in the audience.

"We're going to try to appeal to the students more than was done in the past," he said.

He said that he plans to do this with more current music like "The Power of Love" by Huey Lewis and the News.

Kloecker said the size of the band will remain at 262 members because that is the number of seats that the band is allotted in the stands.

Although the Florida State marching band numbered over 400, he said that a smaller band will be easier to work with.

Kloecker said he is more excited than nervous about the upcoming season.

"I'm looking forward to the first Saturday when I get to be in the crowd and feel the atmosphere around me," said Kloecker, who has never been to a Nebraska football game.

Kloecker said he feels more pressure than he did when he assisted the marching band at Florida State.

"It's my band now," he said. "Every Saturday 80,000 people are judging me, and pressure goes along with that."

Kloecker, born in Kentucky, arrived in Nebraska in July. He had never been west of the Mississippi River. He is impressed with Lincoln's cleanliness and friendly people, he said.

Nebraska's band camp began last week, and the final band was chosen Sunday evening.

"I'm just excited to get going," Kloecker said, "and I can't wait to go to the Orange Bowl."

The Foot-Ankle Clinic

Says:

THINK OF YOUR FOOT FUNCTIONING VERY SIMILAR TO THE FRONT END OF YOUR CAR.

When your car's out of alignment
 The tires wear out
 Uneven stress is placed on the frame
 The steering wheel begins to shake
 Soon the car functions so badly, you can't drive it

THE MISALIGNED FOOT DOES THE SAME THING.

Pressures develop and trouble starts immediately
 Bones move against bones
 Ligaments become stretched
 Soon the entire alignment of your entire body is faulty

SYMPTOMS OF FAULTY FOOT FUNCTION

- * localized foot pain
- * then bunions, corns, and calluses
- * before long, pain in the knees
- * hip pain, leg cramps
- * back pain
- * and even neck pain-headaches
- * fatigue

YOU JUST HURT ALL OVER!
