Iraq welcomes U.N. chief

Iran vows to continue war until Iraq is properly punished

BAGHDAD, Iraq — U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar took his peace mission to Iraq after Iran's president told him Sunday that Iran will keep fighting until a Nuremberg-style court punishes Iraq as the aggressor.

Earlier in the day, Iraq threatened what one official called a "more severe war" unless Iran accepts the U.S. Security Council's July 20 resolution demanding a cease-fire in the 7-year-old war.

Iran says the war began when Iraq invaded in September 1980. Iraq maintains the conflict broke out two weeks earlier when Iran shelled border towns.

Asked whether the U.N. leader failed to get Iran to accept the cease-fire resolution, his spokesman, Francois Giuliani, refused comment.

A convoy of Kuwaiti tankers and U.S. warships protecting them from Iranian attack meanwhile was reported near Bahrain, halfway through its voyage south through the Persian Gulf.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, Cyprus, quotes the U.N. chief as saying the talks were "valuable."

Tehran Radio quoted Khamenei as telling him Iran has been "dissatisfied with decisions made by the Security Council" but that "considering your good intention, we hope that this trip will be fruitful."

Per diem raises disagreement

Nebraska Attorney General Robert Spire and legislative staff attorneys are at odds about whether paying state senators a flat daily sum for expenses runs afoul of a recent Nebraska Supreme Court opinion.

The disagreement could end up in court.

"I think it is clear that the present per diem system used for expense reimbursement may not be consistent with what the court says in this opinion," Spire said. He said he had explained his view to Speaker Bill Barrett of Lexington.

The Aug. 7 court option, which struck down a retirement plan for senators, restated a previous ruling on expenses for senators.

It said "the moneys to be reimbursed to the legislator in the performance of official duties for expenses incurred were to be equal to and not in excess of actual moneys paid or incurred by the legislator for and on behalf of the state."

Spire said a per diem payment, which is an estimate, would not meet that qualification.

Reagan says radar violates treaty

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, in an interview made public Saturday, claimed that a radar installation in the east-central part of the Soviet Union violates the Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty, and he questioned the usefulness of the 5-year-old nuclear arms accord.

But asked point-blank whether he thought the treaty should be allowed to expire or should be abolished, Reagan said, "Well, no. I wouldn't favor that right now."

Earlier in the interview with U.S. News and World Report, Reagan said he believed the radar installation near the city of Krasnoyarsk "certainly is a violation of the ABM treaty."

His conclusion differed from that of three Democratic members of Congress who returned last week from an inspection of the site.

Immigrants topic of pope's speech

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — Pope John Paul II, greeted in this heavily Hispanic city Sunday by the largest crowd yet of his current tour, lauded the "courage and generosity" of those who aid Latin American immigrants to the United States.
