

Beck promises fast-break offense as Nebraska prepares for season

By Steve Sipple
Staff Reporter

On the eve of the first day of basketball practice, Nebraska women's coach Angela Beck said this year's team "will be one of the best we have ever put on the floor."

Last season Nebraska finished 16-13 overall and set a Cornhusker record with eight conference wins. They finished third in the conference tournament and fourth in the Big Eight standings. It was

'We're serious about what we're doing.'

— Beck

Nebraska's first-ever upper-division finish.

This year, Beck said, she is even more optimistic. She said that after one year as coach she has seen a new, winning attitude develop.

"We're serious about what we're doing," Beck said. "There's a lot more enthusiasm and work ethic — the kids are more serious."

"It will be a very exciting team to watch."

Beck said a strong group of returners and an outstanding recruiting class will aid the Huskers in their bid for another upper-division finish. Maurtice Ivy, Amy Stephens and Stephanie Bolli return as starters for Nebraska.

Beck said Ivy, who was named a preseason All-America by Off the Glass and Fast Break Magazines, and Stephens are expected to lead the offense. Ivy, who led the Big Eight last season with a 24 point-per-game scoring average, enters this season needing 266 points to become Nebraska's career scoring leader.

Stephens, a 5-foot-8 junior guard from Alliance, finished second to Ivy in conference scoring last year by averaging 21.7 points per game. She captained the North squad at this summer's Olympic Festival.

Bolli, a 5-10 senior forward from Burwell, started 13 games for the Huskers and averaged 6.5 points per game.

Ivy, Stephens and Bolli, who will captain the 1987-88 Huskers, accounted for 63.5 percent of Nebraska's scoring last season.

Beck said Nebraska's seven newcomers will add needed depth to Nebraska's fast-paced offense.

Nebraska's freshman include 6-1 forward-center Ann Halsne from Spencer, Iowa, 6-1 forward Kelly Hubert from Peoria, Ill., 5-10 guard-forward Melissa Sanford from Lincoln East and 5-11 forward Phazaria Wilson from Omaha Central.

The junior college transfers include 5-8 guard Sabrina Brooks from Moberly (Mo.) Junior College and 5-6 guard Amy Bullock from Barton (Kan.) Junior College. Heather Smith, who competed for Nebraska's track team last year, and Kim Harris, a transfer from Bradley round out the newcomers.

The remaining returnees include Pam Fienc, Wendy Kriebel, and Debbie Hoffman.

Stephens said she's not certain yet how Nebraska will perform against a schedule that includes Notre Dame, DePaul, Iowa, Creighton and a holiday trip to Denmark.

"I don't know right now where we are," Stephens said. "By the end of the season I think we'll be one of the top four teams in the Big Eight."

"The pre-conference schedule will be very important to see how we fit in with each other."

Stephens agreed with Beck that

'It will be an up-tempo, fast-break offense.'

— Stephens

Nebraska's offense will be an exciting one.

"It will be an up-tempo, fast-break offense," she said. "It will be a lot more of a motion offense. We'll play eight to ten people a ballgame."

"If your going to run, you got to look to the bench."

Beck also announced that Nebraska and KLMS radio have signed a contract that makes them the first private radio station to broadcast Husker women's basketball.
