'Marathon' dark, easy to understand

he despises and distrusts them all, wishes they were his enemy's children and wills his inheritance to himself.

During all this time, Mirko is coming into his own and realizing he doesn't belong in the staid, boring mortuary business. There's a new distraction in his life, the movies. The metaphor here is inescapable.

"Marathon Family" depicts life in a small village before the advent of modern media technology and at the beginning of its impact on society.

Mirko is also distracted by Kristina (Svetlana Seka-Sablic), the imbecilic daughter of "Billy", then Topalovic (Zoran Radmolovic), a local small-time gangster who occasionally does some underground coffin repossessing for the mortuary.

In the meantime, both families consider the other crooks, and eventually a family feud breaks out between the two clans over back payment from stolen caskets. "Marathon Family," a dark, wicked comedy bordering at times on the absurd, plays at Sheldon Film Theater this Sunday at 3, 5, 7 and 9 p.m. Admission is $2.75 with student ID and $3.75 without.
