

Vomit testing lab begins operations

LINCOLN — The long-awaited East Campus vomit testing laboratories opened Thursday in what some NUL researchers called a major step in the study of the human condition.

The laboratories, located in a massive warehouse, will house studies of human behavior using research methods involving vomit.

World-renowned vomitologist Ralph Yuroats said the laboratories will allow the study of deep-seated human frustrations brought about by chemical imbalances only found in vomit. He said the study of a person's vomit can tell a lot about their inner self, "and a lot more about what they ate," he chuckled.

NUL administrators said they were anxious to see how much the laboratories, which cost taxpayers a total of $37.3 million, would contribute to science and technology.

"Of course we're a little worried," said NUL Chancellor Marty Assforsale. "When you buy a building and hire scientists to play with people's puke, some taxpayers aren't going to understand."

"It could be a really nauseating experience for everyone involved."

'The stuff's great after you let it sit for three or four days.'

—Upsurge

Chuck Upsurge, assistant to Yuroats, said taxpayers won't complain about the research facility once they realize the full potential of vomitology. He said that besides its scientific value, vomiting will one day be seen as "more than just being sick."

"For a long time, vomiting has been considered something one does when they are ill or extremely drunk," Upsurge said. "Hopefully this will shine new light on the fact that vomiting can also be recreation."

Upsurge said vomiting contest can be a fun way for people to socialize and keep in shape at the same time.

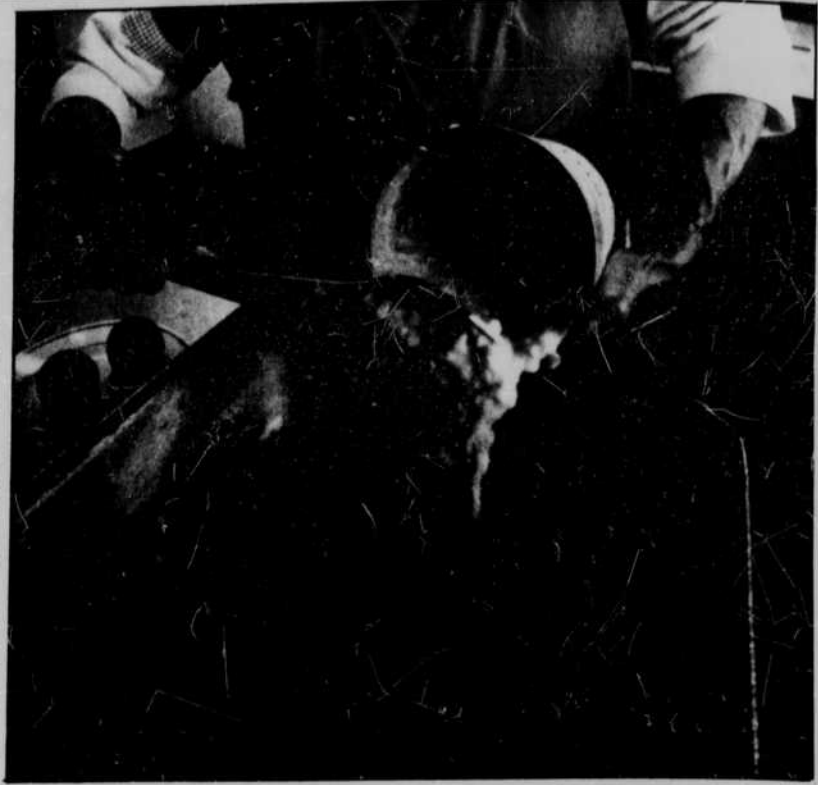

"It sures as hell keeps you thin," he said.

Upsurge also said that vomit can also be used as something to keep the kids occupied on rainy days. He said it could be used for fingerpaints, or as a cheap, easily-attainable substitute for Silly Putty.

"The stuff's great after you let it sit for three or four days," Upsurge said.

Yuroats said he could not elaborate on the specifics of the testing to be done in the labs.

"I'm not gonna spill my guts to the DH," he said.

Deaths dampen banquet

LINCOLN — Events got out of hand Thursday night at the DH spring banquet at Molesterfield's, Buttsley & Putz.

Gunshots rang out and blood flew as three ATU little sisters went on a spree of terror shortly after 9 p.m., moments before the rock group W2 was to begin its set for the evening's entertainment.

The band members, personal friends of several DH staff members, were not injured in the shooting.

However, nine people were killed and 17 wounded during the shooting.

Police apprehended the little sisters, who said they were "after that Billy Allen guy."

Several celebrities, who were positioned at the door to greet DH members as they entered the party room, were gunned down before they knew what was happening.

The management at Molesterfield's, Buttsley & Putz wasn't overjoyed with the result of the DH banquet Thursday.

"Hell yes, we're pissed!" said Freddie Krugermeyer, MB&P manager. "We've had the DH here before and they're pretty decent people, but when they start attracting crowds like that — little sisters and all — that's when we must voice a little displeasure. Especially when movie stars and pop singers get killed here."

Gov-head struts her stuff

LINCOLN — Gov-head Pay Horr's dance number Thursday highlighted the Uptowndowner's fashion show extravaganza in honor of the new Dirt Heap Record Store Memorial Parking Lot.

Horr, who sported a delicate rhinestone-studded brazier and panty with matching plume, said she was pleased with her showing and stressed the occasion had been a lifelong fantasy of hers.

"Since I was a little girl I've wanted to be a Vegas showgirl," she said. "I know my costume was a little progressive for Lincoln but hell, I've got a great bod that was just screaming to be exposed."

The crowd of 200, which was first in shock at Horr's appearance, began to cheer the first lady on as her Vegas style show became more risqué.

Pill Horr, the Gov-head's main squeeze, said he was overjoyed with Pay's routine.

"This night has added new fire to our relationship," Mr. Horr said. "I was hotter than a $2 cap-gun."

Horr said she decided the Dirt Heap parking lot extravaganza was a worthy cause to finally strut her stuff.

"We need all the barren flat spaces we can get in this state," Horr said.

In Brief

ANUS revokes Daily Half-asskin $$$$$

In a surprising move, ANUS Sen. Bibby Dork led a surge of hatred for the DH by revoking $2 from the paper's budget.

The Senut voted 26-0 to yank the money away from the paper. Sen. Dough Hurtz refused to vote on the bill, saying it was just another joke bill.

Dork ripped the liberal student paper, calling it a "bunch of crybaby liberal B.S."

"Let's see those little pissheads put out a paper now," screamed Dork, as she jumped on her broom and flew out of the ANUS office. "They've been abusing cash flow down there for years."

Dork accused DH editors of spending the money at bars, lingerie departments in stores and on "cheap tricks." She said the money will be transferred to the ANUS "Greek Fight Nite" fund.

"I felt the money would be well-spent by the Fight Nite committee," heckled Dork. "After all, what's more of a turn-on than watching two Greeks guys bash each other's heads in."

Money not spent on Fight Nite will go to NUL faculty salaries, Dork said.

"Students must take an initiative in raising faculty salaries," he said. DH Editor-in-Cheese Spuck Obscene said he "didn't give a shit" what the Senut did.

"Everyone knows they're powerless up there," Obscene said. "All they do is give fatcats at the UNI-camera and the Board of Rejects a bunch of stupid ideas about raising tuition."

Pay RMA senators? They can't decide

Members of the NUL Residence Mall Ass. met Thursday and disagreed about what was discussed at the meeting.

"We talked about paying RMA senators," said Sen. Marvin Burger-meyer. "I wanted to make a motion to move it to the floor, but I forgot how to do it."

Sen. Kim Bibby said the senate never discussed it. "All we did is slurp Coke, eat a few bagels and talk about GLOW women's wrestling," Bibby said. "All in all, I would say it was a productive and typical meeting."

Bobfather lands at OK on piece mission

NORMAN, Okla. — The Bobfather, NUL at-letic director, arrived here late Thursday on a two-day piece mission with cheerleaders at OK university.

"They pelted me with oranges after the 17-7 thumping the Mooners gave us last fall," the Bobfather said at the airport. "Now I'm gonna get even with those bitches."

A crowd of five greeted the Bobfather at the OK Airport, where he arrived via Big Red Express Hot Air balloon. The crowd chanted "Eat me Bob" as the Bobfather stumbled out of the balloon, champagne bottle in hand.

Correction

The DH would like to apologize for misspelling Chancellor Marty Assforsale name wrong. It should've been Marty Assforsale. The DH also incorrectly reported the name of Assforsale's dog as Herpes. It should have been Kitty Jo.

In Sunday's issue, the DH reported that 35 NUL students were killed when a tanker truck carrying jet fuel crashed into the Harpalot Residence Hall and exploded. We were wrong — there was no accident. Sorry about the mistake.

Daily Half-asskin

DH Eddy	Spuck Obscene
Ass. Editor	Woody
Man. Editor	Jenbo Elm Tree
Ass. News Editor	Spurt Waggy
Ass. News Editor	The Ag Wench
Ed Page Editor	Lady Di
Wire Editor	Boob Hellbuns
Copy Desk Cheese	TVK
Sports Editor	"Jammin" Jamelle
S&M Editor	Apple
Ass. S&M Editor	Billy Allen
Graphics Editor	Hicky Maller
Ass. Graphics Ed	Bomb Taller
Photo Cheese	Jerb
Night News Editors	Bongo
Art Direction	French Fry
General Man.	Jessica Hahn
Productive Man.	Spaniel Shitheel
Ad Man.	Kitty Witty
Ass. Ad Man.	Peanut M&M
Circulation Man.	Boob Rates
Pub Board Chair.	No Thanks
	Recliner

The Daily Half-asskin (OU17-NU7) is published whenever the staff damn well feels like it.

If readers have suggestions or story ideas, keep them to yourself. We don't give a crap what you think!!

Subscription rates are $400 a year. Send to Jim Bakker, Fort Smith, S.C.

Postmaster: Take address changes and shove 'em. However, if you find any valuables in the mail, send them to Spuck Obscene, DH Office, 666 Hell-Raisin' Lane, Lincoln, NE 68666.

ALL MATERIAL COPIED 1998 DAILY HALF-ASSKIN