Title wouldn't surprise Stanford coach

By Richard Cooper
Staff Reporter

When Stanford finished third at the 1986 NCAA Men's Gymnastics Championships in Lincoln, it surprised many people — even Cardinal coach Sadao Hamada.

But at this year's NCAA Championships April 14-16 at the Bob Devaney Sports Center, Hamada said, it should come as no surprise that the Cardinal has their sights on winning their first NCAA Gymnastics Championship in school history.

Hamada said the reason for his optimism is that Stanford, 20-5 and ranked sixth in the NCAA poll with a 282.26 scoring average, finished second to defending NCAA Champion UCLA at the Pacific Ten Championships last weekend in Los Angeles.

Hamada said if Stanford is included among the three squads that earn berths in the team finals competition April 16, the Cardinal have a good shot of winning the NCAA title because all of their losses have been to top-five teams. Stanford was 1-3 against UCLA and also dropped decisions to No. 1-ranked Illinois and third-ranked Oklahoma this season.

Hamada said Stanford also has a shot at winning the NCAA championship because of seniors Randy Besosa, Mike Matzek and Chuck Gerardo. Besosa's highest score in the all-around competition this season is 58.05, while Matzek and Gerardo have tallied 57.7 and 57.5 scores.

Hamada said Besosa stands a good chance of winning the individual all-around title because he has scored above 57 all year. He said this season's team is Stanford's best ever because of Besosa, Matzek and Gerardo.

"I think we have a very good team because we have a lot of depth," Hamada said. "This year's NCAAAs are going to be very close because five or six teams have a shot of winning it, and we're one of them."

Hamada said Stanford will enter this year's competition as the top seed from the West Region because UCLA was plagued by injuries throughout the season.

Hamada said if the Cardinal are to win the NCAA Championship, they will have to score 2-3 points higher than Nebraska and Illinois. He said the Cornhuskers are the favorites entering the competition because they have the home-floor advantage.

"I think we're just as good as UCLA, Nebraska and Illinois," Hamada said. "I think we can win."

L.A. to dodge pennant chance in 1988

GREEN from Page 8

doesn't look too much more promising. Rick Mahler and Bruce Sutter are the top men on the mound for Atlanta. Big deal.

errors last season. To make matters worse, Los Angeles scored only 635 runs last year and the pitching staff was never really there. It will be missing again in 1988.
