its penalties and fumbles, Thorell said. The Huskers were flagged for 13 penalties for 144 yards, and had two touchdowns called back on penalties. Nebraska fumbled four times, losing one.

"We told them they still have a long way to go," Thorell said. "We had too many bobbled snaps and holding and clipping penalties. We have a good offense and the defense will be good. We need to get the mental part down better."

Thorell said he thought he could convince the team that it needs improvement after watching the game's films.

"If the defensive linemen stood up too soon, he'll get a minus," Thorell said. "If the offensive lineman blocked the wrong man, even if we scored a touchdown, he'll get a minus. They'll know how well they played by how they grade."

Thorell said he did not want the team to become overconfident from Monday's win because the Huskers played a similar game last year against St. Thomas during a 62-0 win. Nebraska followed that game with a 55-0 win over Bethany, but lost its final three games.

"We still have four games to go," he said. "After last year, I'm a little more cautious. Last year we started the same way."

Thorell said many players had good games for Nebraska. He said Grant, Baldwin, McDuffy, Duin, Bostick and linebackers Paul Wightman and Mike Petko played well.

Grant rushed six times for 67 yards and completed three of five passes for 81 yards and three touchdowns.

"(Grant) is going to be a great quarterback," Thorell said. "He still has a ways to go, though."

McDuffy led the Huskers with 68 yards on eight carries. Baldwin gained 52 yards on seven carries, and Paul Van Housen picked up 56 yards on 10 rushes and scored two touchdowns. Reserve quarterback John McMillen completed 3 of 4 passes for 70 yards and one touchdown.
