Softball team to face Kearney

By Mike Kluck
Staff Reporter

After having played on Kearney State's baseball team for one season, Nebraska softball coach Ron Wolforth said he knows how the Antelopes' softball team will approach playing the Cornhuskers.

The 3-1 Nebraska softball team will face the Lopers in a doubleheader at 6:30 p.m. today at the Nebraska Softball Complex. The field's new lights will be dedicated at 6:15 p.m.

"I always got motivated for playing against Nebraska, because you actually had nothing to lose," Wolforth said. "Nebraska was supposed to beat you and you were in here loosey-goosey and you do all sorts of things to try and beat them."

Kearney State, 2-2, will be the same way this weekend, Wolforth said. He said he knows the Lopers are coming in looking to win and to spoil Nebraska's "party," which he said makes him nervous.

"These games make me more tense than playing against UCLA, because there is so much I will hear all winter about even a split," Wolforth said.

Kearney State coach Dan Simmons said the Lopers are looking forward to playing Nebraska.

"We've got nothing to lose," said Simmons. "We may make some mistakes, but I don't think we'll fall apart. We're just going to come in here and play. It's just an enjoyment for us to come in here and play them."

Although Wolforth said he's nervous, he knows what the Huskers need to do to win.

"If we don't hit the ball well, it's going to be a battle," he said. "I'm nervous about how we're going to play. I don't think we're near the point where we need to be mentally, yet."

The Lopers' mental attitudes have improved after last weekend, Simmons said. Kearney State defeated both Creighton and Kansas by 2-1 scores in nine innings at the Husker Invitational. The Lopers then lost to both Western Illinois (4-3) and Northern Iowa (4-0). Nebraska went 3-1 at the Invitational and defeated Northern Iowa 4-0 and Creighton 3-2.

Nebraska and Kearney State didn't play each other in the tournament.

Simmons said the Lopers' performance helped to improve the team's attitude.

"Were really a young team and we made a lot of mistakes (last) weekend but our kids kept climbing back," Simmons said. "Our kids believe now that they can play. They all are really good and talented athletes and they are starting to believe in themselves. The confidence factor is what we need now."

Simmons said the Lopers aren't going to concentrate on stopping Nebraska, but instead will work on improving their own game plan.

"We're concentrating and our goal is to do the things that we know we need to do and to try to execute them," Simmons said. "We're too worried about getting our game in line and we're not going to look past that. We're not going to do anything special."

Wolforth said he is happy with the Huskers' team unity so far this season.

"I've been extremely pleased that we have molded together as a very tight unit," Wolforth said. "It is a real good unit because of my senior leadership — my five seniors — and junior Jill Rishel. They have really molded these people into a family unit and that is going to be vital."

UNL soccer club kicks Wesleyan

By Jeremy Felker
Staff Reporter

Boasting a record 2-1-1 and outscoring their opponents 14-6, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln soccer club has shown its capable of giving any opponent a good game.

The Cornhuskers played an outmanned Nebraska Wesleyan team and rolled to an easy 9-0 victory before about 20 fans at Nebraska Wesleyan's football stadium.

Lane Kent, the UN-L soccer club's vice president, said his team used the match as a practice session.

"It was a chance to work on some skills we have been trying to develop on in practice," Kent said. "We really weren't looking to run up the score, but when scoring opportunities come about you have to take them."

Scoring is what the Huskers did. About two minutes into the first half, Tim Weindel relayed a cornerkick for the Huskers' first goal.

Nebraska followed Weindel's goal with a turnaround kick in a crowd by Doug Miller, who's goal raised the score to 2-0 about five minutes into the half.

The Huskers spent much of the first half in Wesleyan's side of the field, with John DeNorerie adding one goal, and Chris Weindel adding two more.

Nebraska's Jim Ditoro struck again right before the end of the half when he received a beautiful pass and nailed the goal for to give the Huskers a 6-0 lead.

The second half began with Wesleyan in control, only to see the Huskers' Tim Weindel once again score.

Nebraska's Kent and Miller added goals late in the second half to close with a 9-0 win.

Nebraska will next face Kansas State Oct. 2 in Manhattan, Kan.

With Thursday's victory, the Huskers continue to move toward making soccer an official UNL varsity sport. Kent said that move could occur as early as next season.

"There is a group of national referees in Omaha that are meeting on a monthly basis and they're trying to work it out," Kent said. "What they need from us is some proof that our program is solid and that we have a lot of interest from Nebraska."

Kent said most of the Big Eight is ready to make soccer a varsity sport. Nebraska and Oklahoma, he said, are holding the process back.

"We've been kind of holdig back because (Nebraska athletic director) Bob Devaney and whoever their athletic director is down there doesn't want to sacrifice any funds."

Huskers ready for Salina

By Lori Griffin
Staff Reporter

Nebraska women's tennis coach Gregg Calvin said the Cornhuskers started the season on a good note at the Nebraska Open two weeks ago and are ready for their first collegiate tournament.

Nebraska will play in the Salina Open today through Sunday in Salina, Kan. Calvin said the Huskers' performance at the Nebraska Open shows that they are capable of playing well.

Ildiko Guba, Nebraska's No. 1 singles player, defeated teammate Doneta Holmen, 6-3, 6-4 for the tournament title. The No.1 doubles team of Nancy Tyggum and Holmen defeated former Huskers Ann Swanson and Sue Sloboth 6-0, 6-1 to win the doubles crown.

Calvin plans to use the Salina Open to see how Nebraska compares to other Big Eight schools. Nebraska will be competing against Wichita State, Kansas State and Iowa State in the tournament.

Freshmen Rachel Collins, Katharin Edelkotter and Leslie Sue Jones will be competing for the first time on the collegiate level, Calvin said.

Edelkotter, from West Germany, is still making the transition from clay courts in her country to the hard, concrete courts Nebraska plays on.

ASU coach says his team's better than a 22 1/2-point underdog

Nebraska.

"Not too many people down through history have lined up and ran to beat them," Marmie said. "We have to have a balanced attack, and we need to establish the run to open up the passing game."

Nebraska defensive tackle Willie Griffin said the Huskers will have to concentrate on Arizona State's offense the entire game.

"We definitely have to stay in the game when we're on the sidelines," he said. "We can't get down on ourselves or mope about if we mess up or don't do good. We have to concentrate or we could get burned."

Although the Sun Devils are listed as 22 1/2 point underdogs, Marmie said he thinks the team can defeat the Huskers.

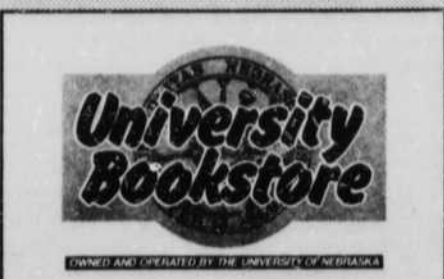

"I think we have the attitude and have the confidence that if we play reasonably well, we have a chance to win," he said. "If we go in and do the things we want to do, we have as good a chance as anyone."

Osborne said the 41-28 loss to UCLA two weeks ago may play a big part in Saturday night's game.

"You have to understand that things can happen to you," Osborne said. "It makes you practice harder. I'm sure we're not as confident now as we were before the UCLA game."
