

Agent Leigh Steinberg slated to speak at UNL

Leigh Steinberg, a California attorney and sports agent, will speak today at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Law on the topic of sports law and being a sports agent.

Steinberg will appear at 4 p.m. in the Center-Pie room of the Ross McCollum Building in room 112. The speech is open to the public and is free of charge.

Steinberg, 39, is the agent for 27

first-round draft choices in various sports. Included among the list of Steinberg's clients are major league baseball players Will Clark of the San Francisco Giants and Cory Snyder of the Cleveland Indians; National Football League quarterbacks Steve Young of the San Francisco 49ers and Warren Moon of the Houston Oilers; and National Basketball Association player Byron Scott of the Los Angeles Lakers.

Steinberg said Wednesday from his office in Berkeley, Calif., that the field of sports law is probably "the hottest field going."

"It's gone from being of profession of 200 to 300 agents in 1970 to a field of 10,000 to 15,000 today," he said. "Some agents today don't have more than a business card, but they still consider themselves agents."
