

Gymnast: Audience will help NU

By Mike O'Malley
Staff Reporter

When the Nebraska women's gymnastics team faced UCLA earlier this season, Cornhusker coach Rich Walton blamed his team's loss on the judging.

Now, Nebraska's Laura Saviski hopes the tables are turned.

Saviski said Nebraska will have a definite advantage when it faces UCLA and Michigan in the Masters Classic Sunday at the Bob Devaney Sports Center. The meet, which features free admission for all University of Nebraska-Lincoln students who present their student identifications, begins at 2 p.m.

The Huskers will prepare for the meet by facing Iowa State on Friday. That meet begins at 7 p.m. in Ames, Iowa.

Saviski said Nebraska has not forgotten what happened when it faced UCLA earlier this season in Los Angeles, Calif. Walton blasted the judging following the Huskers' 189.8-187.15 setback, saying it was inconsistent.

But Saviski said the judging should not hurt Nebraska this time because the Huskers will be competing at home.

"Having the home crowd backing the judges should help us out," Saviski said. "Everybody is psyched for the chance to go against UCLA again and show them that we're a better team."

Saviski said Nebraska, 7-1, is confident about its chances against UCLA.

Nebraska's Lisa McCrady said the Huskers will be ready for the meet because they have not competed since they defeated Oklahoma and Missouri on Feb. 12. Nebraska outperformed the Sooners and Tigers by tallying 189.50 points, while Oklahoma finished 2nd with 185.55 and Missouri was 3rd with 180.15.

"Our last meet was definitely a positive one," McCrady said. "We have to build from that."

McCrady said Nebraska can not afford to fall against UCLA.

She said she hopes she can perform at the same level this weekend that she did against Oklahoma and Missouri. McCrady set a school record in that meet by recording a 9.75 score in the floor exercise.

McCrady said she was pleased with her performance.

"It was nice that I could do it for my team, not for me," McCrady said. "That's what we need to do -- stay together as a team. That's what we've stressed the last couple weeks. We need to work as a team if we're going to nationals."

Walton said he has been stressing teamwork and consistency during practice. He said Nebraska needs to smooth out the various rough spots it has been encountering.

"We've been trying to find where the problems are," Walton said. "We're doing all right, but we need more consistency."

Walton said there has not been one specific area that has been giving Nebraska problems.

"We've been flip-flopping around," Walton said. "One meet it's one event, the next it's another. If we put four events together in one meet, we'll go 190 or better. It's just a matter of time."

Team captures tournament title

The Nebraska women's soccer team used strong play from halfbacks Kris Meysenburg and Cathy Guerrero to capture the team title at their own invitational last weekend at Cook Pavilion.

Meysenburg scored three goals -- including Nebraska's only two against Iowa State -- and Guerrero added one to lead the Cornhuskers to the title. Meysenburg and Guerrero were joined by Kansas State's Mo and Gaby Hanek, Missouri's Jenny Tate, Wichita State's Helena Viera, Iowa State's Tonja Bruns and Colorado State's Lisa LaCasse on the all-tournament team.
