combating apathy in the general student population, she would like to see increased involvement from ASUN senators this year.

"Right now we're trying to keep everyone (in the senate) enthused and in touch with everything that's going on to keep them involved," she said.

Strict enforcement of senate attendance policy should encourage senators to attend both senate and committee meetings, Bohling said.

ASUN bylaws state that senators will be dismissed if they have more than three unexcused absences from senate meetings, she said.

Hill said expanded training for senators last spring was helpful in preparing senators to "start off on the right foot" this year.

The expanded training involved sessions on parliamentary procedure, leadership skills and goal setting, Hill said.

Bohling agreed that the expanded training program was helpful.

Brainstorming to get ideas for projects for this year was an important and successful part of the program, she said.

Bruning said he would like to see ASUN pursue more controversial issues this year to keep students interested and involved.

"It's tough to get students interested in student government when they don't really care about the issues that we're dealing with," he said.

Triangle apologizes

A Triangle fraternity newsletter printed an apology for a member's alleged involvement in the making of a mock newsletter that ridiculed homosexuals.

The mock newsletter, entitled the "Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Avacados (sic)," was distributed on the UNL campus in early March.

The Big Red Telegraph, Triangle's newsletter, apologized for the newsletter, saying the "SPCA in no way represents the views of the Nebraska Chapter of Triangle and is, in fact, largely the efforts of a single brother."

UNL Triangle President Greg Imig said the apology should not have been printed because there is no proof that the Triangle member was involved.

"I confronted this person and he denied (making the newsletter)," Imig said.

Hamilton explosion

A chemical explosion in Hamilton Hall slightly injured a UNL graduate student and spewed radiation and a dangerous chemical throughout a lab on the seventh floor.

The explosion occurred July 12 at 2:30 a.m. and caused glass slivers to cut graduate student Sheng Shijie's chin. Sheng was pouring a highly reactive chemical into a beaker when the explosion occurred.

George Sturgeon, vice chairman of the chemistry department, said the chemical that caused the explosion, diazomethane, is very touchy and unpredictable.

The chemical and radiation from carbon-14 contaminated Sheng's clothes, lab apron and her hair. Her hair had to be cut because the chemical had bonded to it.

After the explosion, Sheng ran to the bathroom, contaminating it and the hall.

Larry Grimm, UNL radiation safety officer, said carbon-14 doesn't emit much radiation. He said UNL environmental officials cleaned up the mess in the bathroom and the hall.

Grimm said the officials have been too busy to clean the lab, but he plans to have it cleaned some time this week.

Transferable tickets

Football tickets will become transferable under a plan announced by the UNL athletic department.

Under the new plan, students can give their tickets to other full-time students. Students with borrowed tickets will enter a special gate where their full-time status will be verified.

James Griesen, vice chancellor for student affairs, said students borrowing tickets can use either the photo or the non-photo IDs. UNL is in the process of implementing a photo ID system.

Students also can give tickets to non-students, who must pay the $11.50 difference between the student and general admission price. For the Nebraska-Oklahoma game, non-student ticket borrowers will pay an $18.50 difference.

Joe Selig, ticket manager at UNL, said the student ticket holder, not the borrower, must pay the difference at the ticket office during specified days and times.

Those days are Wednesday and Thursday before the game in question from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. and 9 to 11 a.m. on game day.

A High GPA Won't Get You To Heaven.

Nor does Jesus take attendance at church or add up the money you give. You see, Christianity means more than going to church, singing hymns or giving money. At the Lincoln Church of Christ we believe that to be a Christian you have to know Christ. We are a group of people dedicated to the basics of Christianity; studying the Bible, caring for one another and bringing glory to God.

We invite you to join us in a fellowship that genuinely cares for one another. Meet Tim, Glen & Mike, our evangelists and enjoy our college-age activities. Everyone is invited regardless of religious background. Join us at the times listed below.

Special Activities for University Students:
Spiritual: Bible Studies, Devotionals, Life Groups
