Air France hijackers arrested

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) - An unarmed Algerian emigre took control of an Air France airliner flying from Paris to Algiers with 115 people aboard Wednesday, but he was arrested when the plane landed at Algiers airport, officials said.

News reports in Paris said the man was being expelled from France to his homeland when he hijacked the Airbus A300.

An Air France spokeswoman, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the hijacking ended at 3:25 p.m. (10:25 a.m. EDT), barely an hour after the plane landed at Houari Boumediene airport east of the Algerian capital. She said the 102 passengers and 13 members of the crew were all safe.

Officials at the airport control tower, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the hijacker had demanded the convening of an international conference on the war in Lebanon.

Algerian police identified the hijacker as Said Djamel, alias Bendada, a 30-year-old merchant in Paris.

The French news agency Agence France-Presse, citing unidentified sources in Paris, said the man was being expelled for "violating public order" and that he "displayed great agitation" before being put on the flight to Algiers.

The Air France spokeswoman said she could not confirm the reported demand, specify the number of hijackers or give details of how the hijacking was ended.

Initial reports from French air traffic control sources had said the flight of the Airbus A300 from Paris to Algiers had been diverted toward Tunisia.

Earlier reports had said variously that 130 and 123 people were aboard.

The French news agency Agence France-Presse said Air France Flight 2323 took off from Orly airport at 12:50 p.m.

The hijacking came amid heightened tensions between France and Moslem forces fighting in Lebanon. The Syrian forces and their allied Moslem militias recently said they would shell French warships gathering in the eastern Mediterranean if they intervened militarily in Lebanon.

France said the warships were dispatched to evacuate 7,000 French nationals in Lebanon if the 5-month-old battle between Moslem and Christian forces worsens. But the Moslems accuse the French of backing the Christians.

Police arrest assassination suspects

BOGOTA, Colombia - Police said they arrested five suspects Tuesday night in the assassination of leading presidential candidate Luis Carlos Galan at a campaign rally. His slaying has been blamed on cocaine traffickers.

The five were presented to local reporters at national police headquarters and shown on television. They were dressed in casual, well-worn clothing.

Police said all five were Colombian, and identified them as Armando Bernal Acosta, Norberto Morillo Charalca, Pedro Zembrano Delgado, Luis Gonzalez Chacop and Jubis Hazvumb.

Police said the five men were arrested at a downtown apartment. No other details were immediately released.

The police also said they started proceedings to extradite a purported manager of drug money to the United States, where he faces conspiracy charges involving a billion-dollar money-laundering scheme.

Authorities reported more raids and seizures on the fourth day of their nationwide crackdown on the drug underworld. The country's judges planned to return to their duties, ending a strike called after a judge and police official were killed Thursday.

The extradition of Eduardo Martinez Romero, said to manage funds for the notorious Medellin cartel, was seen as a test of the government's pledge to hand over cocaine traffickers to the United States. The powerful cocaine cartels in the past have cowed the courts through a systematic campaign of terror.

Martinez escaped arrest this spring in Panama on the day U.S. officials announced his indictment in connection with the drug-laundering scheme. The indictment followed an investigation which resulted in charges against 127 people and two Latin American banks.

U.S. Attorney General Dick Thornburgh said the United States is moving to extradite Martinez, even though his name was not on a list of the "Dozen Most Wanted" drug traffickers Thornburgh sent Tuesday to the Colombian government. The list focused on the leaders of the Medellin and Cali cartels.
