On the receiving end of the quarterback's passes will be junior tight end Tim Bruton, a preseason All-America candidate. Bruton caught 26 passes last season. However, one of the biggest problems facing Stull and the rest of the Missouri staff is depth at wide receiver. Only one scholarship receiver -- Ron Pointer -- is listed on the Tigers' roster, and the success through the air will depend greatly on incoming freshmen. Missouri signed seven wide receivers to supplement the talents of Pointer, including junior-college transfer Damon Mays. Craig Paterra, a 6-foot, 179-pound converted quarterback, is expected to help wherever needed in the Tigers' receivers roster, and Linzy Collins, the top junior college receiver in the nation last season, also will see playing time. When the Tigers decide to run, depth won't be a problem. Missouri returns five running backs who gained more than 100 yards in 1988, plus five other lettermen. At fullback, Tommie Stowers returns for his senior season. Stowers, a 6-3, 225-pounder, led Missouri in rushing last year with 667 yards. When Stowers isn't carrying the ball, he'll be blocking for tailback Michael Jones, who rushed for 463 yards last season. Jim White and Smiley Elmore will challenge Jones for playing time. One of Stull's biggest concerns is the Tigers' offensive line. Guards Pete Scott and Jay Greenwood return, but are backed up by inexperienced players. At center, freshman Brad Funk and senior Jeff Gardener will compete for the starting job, while the tackles probably will be Don Wright, a 6-4, 245-pound senior, and Andy Lock, 6-3, 275, who started last season for Missouri. Defensively, Missouri returns seven starters. A.J. Miller, another SMU transfer, suffered a knee injury during the spring game, and his career likely is over. Because of his loss, Stull said, Missouri is left short-handed at that position. Jerold Fletcher and Stacy Elliott will challenge to become Miller's replacement, while Brian Reeves will return to his starting position on the other outside spot. On the inside, linebacker Darren McDonald will return to anchor the middle. McDonald compiled 90 tackles last season and is only 67 tackles from breaking Missouri's career record. The other inside linebacker spot will be filled by either Tom Reiner or Ron Walters. The defensive line returns both tackles. Kevin White, a 6-4, 267-pound senior will play opposite Lee Johnson, who recorded 63 tackles last season, including 10 for losses. At middle guard, Tim Burke and Jeff Harper are expected to battle for the starting role. Adrian Jones returns for his final season at left cornerback. Jones, a Playboy preseason All-America selection, made 72 tackles last season, and has led the Big Eight twice in interceptions. His 14 career pickoffs tie him for the school record. Otis Smith, also a starter last season, returns, but this time at left cornerback. He played strong safety last season, where Ted LePage and Harry Colon will compete to replace him. The free safety spot will be handled by Leon Fisher or Sharron Washington. Jeff Jacke returns as the Tigers' placekicker, and Mike Rookstool will be the likely choice at punter, Stull said.
