Pool to be open by beginning of October

By Jerry Guenther
Senior Reporter

With the arrival of a part for the new campus Recreation Center swimming pool last week, the director of campus recreation said he hopes the pool will open by the beginning of October.

Stan Campbell said the part, a back float valve, arrived Friday and will be installed as soon as possible.

"Unless something unforeseen happens, we anticipate having the pool open within about two weeks," he said.

After the back float valve is installed, Campbell said, it will take a while "to get the system up and running" and make sure the water is within standard safety limits.

The back float valve will be installed so water from a nearby storm sewer will not back up into the holding tank for pool water, he said.

Campbell said he originally had hoped the new pool would be open at the beginning of the semester.

Campbell said part of the reason the pool didn't open then was because campus rec officials were waiting for the back float valve to arrive.

The architect's original plans didn't include the part, Campbell said, but campus rec officials thought it was necessary and decided to order it.

University of Nebraska-Lincoln students can continue to use the swimming pool in Mabel Lee until the new pool opens, he said.

Campbell said that once the new pool opens, plans are to make it available to students from 6:45 a.m. to 9 p.m. weekdays.

The Recreation Center swimming pool is expected to be open in about two weeks.

On Saturdays the new pool will be open from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Sunday hours will be 11 a.m. to 9 p.m., he said.

"That's going to be more than twice as long as they currently have," he said.

Although Campbell said the new pool has one less swimming lane than the Mabel Lee pool, he said he thinks students will enjoy the new pool more because it will have better water conditions.

"From my perspective, it's a much better pool," he said.

Campbell said UNL students pay to use the pool, running track, weights, racquetball courts and other campus rec facilities through student fees.

UNL faculty and staff members who want to use the pool or any other campus rec facilities must pay a fee similar to what students pay in fees.

Campbell said faculty and staff members must pay $45 to use the rec center during the academic year and $60 for a full year.
