Perkins Loan recipients must pick up checks; sign promissory notes

Perkins Loan recipients must pick up their checks and sign promissory notes Monday Sept. 25 through Wednesday Sept. 27 in the Nebraska Union Ballroom. Students who do not pick up their checks on these three days may have their loan cancelled for the school year, said John Beacon, director of the Office of Scholarships and Financial Aid. Students must bring their student identification cards and any loan forms. Checks will be issued from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. each of the three days.

of the Nebraska Legislature on the regents' funding expenditures still is pending.

Swanson said he is preparing bid specifications for the pizza parlor so work can begin as soon as possible.

In addition to the $36,400 for renovating the Harvest Room entrance, the regents also approved a $14,000 expenditure for a new salad bar.

Though $14,000 sounds like a lot of money for a salad bar, Swanson said, it is about the same cost as for salad bars at other restaurants such as Sizzler.

The $14,000 request also includes the cost to remove the old salad bar, he said.

Another stage of the Harvest Room renovation plan is to relocate the women's restroom to west of the men's restroom to make the cafeteria more visible.

Swanson said the UNL Physical Plant has estimated that it will cost $67,800 to build the new women's restroom and $7,500 to demolish the old one.

The physical plant also has estimated that it will cost $9,000 to refinish the floor and ceiling from where the old restroom was located, he said.

Swanson said the money to build the new women's restroom is available from a reallocation of previous capital funding.

Money to destroy and refinish the surfaces from the old restroom is included in the $36,400 expenditure request, he said.

who apply and more than 50 percent of those accepted are women, he said.

Tasker said he feels there are fewer male students applying to veterinary school because they are more anxious to go where the money is, whereas female students are more apt to pursue a career they enjoy.

The declining number of applicants does not, however, affect the number of people becoming veterinarians, Tasker said. The number of students admitted to veterinary schools is generally a set number, he said.

"The decrease in applicants is somewhat favorable," Tasker said, "because there is a greater chance than before for people who really want to be vets to be accepted."

Tasker said his biggest concern is the decreasing number of veterinarians working with livestock.

This could be because of the increased number of females entering the veterinary field, White said.

More women in the profession show an interest in working with horses and companion animals rather than livestock, he said.

Student Health and Accident Insurance

Mid West National Life Insurance Company in Irving, Texas provides

UNL students and dependents with medical coverage designed specifically for them. All undergraduate and graduate students who have paid their University Health Center fees are eligible for coverage under this plan. Their dependents are eligible for coverage although they must use community medical resources.

The insurance policy will pay 80% of the first $2,500 of reasonable and customary expenses after a deductible has been met, and 100% of the expenses above $2,500 up to a lifetime maximum of $50,000.

For treatment received at UNL Health Center, the deductible is waived and covered expenses are paid at 100%. Refer to your insurance brochure for additional benefits and covered expenses.

Enrollment for first semester ends October 8, 1989

Fees for the 89/90 School Year are as follows:

- Student Only.....$260.00
- Add for Spouse..... 720.00
- Add for Each Child..... 315.00

If you wish to be covered under this plan, you must fill out the enrollment cards available by mail or from the Student Health Center. Coverage becomes effective upon receipt of your payment.

He said he is looking at other money sources since the selling price will not cover the entire cost of producing the book.

"We may have to look into adding on to student fees," he said. The committee also may go to the Alumni Association for funds, Bruning said.

"I know they're interested in it," he said.

Bruning said administrators and students also have expressed interest in reviving the book.

Bruning currently is organizing a task force to "gauge interest in the project."

"We'd like to get the journalism college involved," Bruning said.

Getting off-campus students interested is one problem the task force has to deal with, Bruning said. Another problem they will have to solve is getting every student's picture taken, he said.

Although the book still is in the planning stages, it will be modeled after previous yearbooks, which had staffs of 60 to 70 people. He said he hopes the first issue will come out in the spring of 1991.

ASUN currently is accepting applications to work on the book.
