it hurts REAL bad. The owners, sensible humans(?) that they are, are sure to flip over these proposals. If they really like them, I think I'll hold out for an extra $10,000 with a $5,000 bonus just for writing them down.

Recreation office offering classes

From Staff Reports

The Office of Campus Recreation is taking registrations for instructional sports classes which will teach everything from scuba diving to ballroom dancing.

Craig Christensen, relations director at the Office of Campus Recreation, said the courses are designed to teach people about a variety of subjects. In addition to scuba diving and ballroom dancing, squash and racquetball also are being taught.

The racquetball portion of the clinic includes beginning and intermediate classes.

Christensen said University of Nebraska-Lincoln students interested in registering for classes should see Vicki Highstreet, coordinator of fitness and instructional programming at campus recreation, by Monday. The Office of Campus Recreation is located inside the Lee and Helene Sapp Recreation Facility.

Christensen said registration fees will be charged for each class. The ballroom dancing course is $12 per person or $20 per couple, while the squash and intermediate racquetball classes cost $25.

The beginning racquetball class costs $22, while the scuba course is $175.
