Shrine

and one touchdown.

After the Shrine Bowl, and after spending about two weeks away from home preparing for the game, the six recruits and those who will walk-on had to return to Memorial Stadium on Monday--the day Husker junior varsity players were to report.

Despite the tight schedule, the six recruits said after the game that they were looking forward to becoming Huskers.

"I'm really excited," said Jon Pedersen, a 6-foot-3, 235-pound lineman from Grand Island.

Nebraska has "a better program, a better weight room and better meals" than other schools, Schlesinger said.

Rob Zatechka, an offensive lineman from Lincoln East, where he maintained a 4.0 GPA and scored a 30 on his ACT, said, "I wanted to play for a good football team." But it also helped that he is familiar with the campus. His father, Douglas, is UNL's director of housing.

Jones said the feedback he got from others helped him decide to attend Nebraska. He had heard, "It's one of the best."

The 6-foot-1, 204-pounder said playing in the Shrine Bowl and going to the Shriner's hospital for children in Minneapolis helped him put things in perspective.

"You feel that God gave you the talents (that others don't have)," Jones said. "You feel wonderful to see that you have a talent."
