Unlikely athletes play Big (8) roles

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A starter with a sore back and a little-known reserve played big roles in the Big Eight Saturday.

Mike Maddox, who was expected to sit out because of his bad back, had 15 points as Kansas humbled Missouri, 91-64. At Oklahoma, Oklahoma State reserve Dennis Burbank fouled Jeff Webster with 6:11 remaining and the Cowboys ahead 64-62 lead. Burbank argued and was hit with a technical foul. Oklahoma took the lead for good in a flurry of free throws en route to a 76-72 victory.

Webster hit two free throws on the common foul and two more on the technical. Brent Price made two free throws on the ensuing possession and Oklahoma had a 68-64 lead.

At Kansas, Maddox helped trigger a 23-8 run beginning the second half that buried Missouri. He had missed the Jayhawks' previous game and had practiced about 15 minutes on Friday.

"Maybe Coach (Roy) Williams will let me just practice for 15 minutes next week," Maddox said.

Shaun Vandiver scored 20 points as Colorado held off fast-closing Southwest Missouri State, 69-67. Colorado led by nine points with three minutes to go, but the Bears closed the deficit to 67-64 when Lovelace Redmond stole an inbounds pass and hit a three-pointer with 0:12 remaining.

Colorado's Billy Law took the inbounds pass from halfcourt and went in for a layup. Darryl Reid hit a three-pointer at the buzzer for the Bears.

At Iowa State, Paul Doerrfeld scored 17 points and made two free throws with 0:07 left to lift the Cyclones past Kansas State, 94-91.

The teams were tied at 41 at halftime. Iowa State started the second half with a 10-2 run. But the Wildcats then outscored Iowa State 22-10 to take a 62-61 lead with 13:10 left.

They traded buckets until Jean Derouillere gave the Wildcats a 79-76 lead with 4:56 remaining, then Derouillere fouled out.

Mid West National Life

Students Health and Accident Insurance

UNL has tried to find a medical plan to suit the needs of most of our students, graduate or undergraduate. Mid West Student Insurance Company and the University Health Center are working together to provide such a plan. The premium for student coverage is affordable, and works in conjunction with the Student Health Center fees to provide the best medical care available and as economically as possible.

The student is required to seek treatment at University Health Center whenever possible. To effectively utilize this policy your Health Center fees must be paid. In the event of an emergency, if you are more than 50 miles from UHC, or when a referral has been obtained from a UHC physician, there is a $75.00 deductible and MOST charges are paid at 80%.

Dependent coverage is also available for an additional premium. The policy is designed to help off-set the cost of major medical care and hospitalizations. It does not cover routine physicals, dental visits or prescriptions. Dependents must use community medical resources, and the deductibles will apply.

Nebraska's Todd Enger strains to hold UNO's Scott Stogdill to the mat Saturday at the Bob Devaney Sports Center.

NU's Rempe returns, but with status unclear

By Nick Hytrek
 Staff Reporter

Nebraska wrestler Matt Rempe's name can't be found in this season's media guide, but the University of Nebraska at Omaha found out who he was Saturday.

Rempe, who left the team last year, rejoined the Cornhuskers Friday night and wrestled for the first time in about 13 months, posting an 8-5 decision over UNO's Mark Richter at 142 pounds in Saturday's 29-13 dual victory over the Mavericks.

The junior from Harrisonville, Mo., left the team last year because of injuries. Rempe said he had shoulder and knee surgeries, and a broken finger. He said all of those injuries "put a damper on things."

Rempe said Coach Tim Neumann called him on Friday to see if he would be interested in wrestling against the Mavericks.

"First I asked why," Rempe said. "Coach explained they (the team) had so many guys injured, and I said, 'Sure, I'd be glad to give it a try.'"

Rempe said he went to the Bob Devaney Sports Center to work out Friday night and again Saturday morning. It was the first time he had worked out since he left the team.

weights. The only thing that had kept him in shape, he said, was riding his bike.

Rempe didn't enter the match with any specific strategy.

"I just went out there and stayed relaxed the first couple of minutes and scored when the opportunity was there," he said.

The long absence from the mat didn't hamper him until the end of the match, Rempe said.

"The technique is there. I've been wrestling for years," he said. "By the third period, I was getting fatigued so I just tried to relax."

But Nebraska wrestling fans should not anticipate Rempe becoming a permanent fixture in the lineup again.

"I don't have any plans to stay out right now," he said. "I'm kind of undecided."

they went out and wrestled like they've been training.

"I think it was one of our better matches of the year."

Neumann said he and the other Nebraska coaches "gave a butt-chewing session" after the Clemson dual.

"We tried to explain to them that no matter who you've got in there, a national champion or a guy who hasn't won a match, you've got to prepare."

The Huskers will travel to Northern Iowa tonight for their third dual in five days. At the National Team Championships in Hampton, Va., last week, the Huskers defeated the eighth-ranked Panthers after forfeiting three weight classes.
