Wrestlers receive break after win

By Chuck Green
Senior Reporter

Nine days on, nine days off. Nebraska wrestling coach Tim Neumann is hoping that scheduling will help his fifth-ranked Cornhuskers return to their normal healthy status and improve their chances at their first national title, which has eluded Neumann since taking over at Nebraska in 1986.

The Huskers finished a nine-day, four-dual stretch Friday night with a 26-6 win against Wyoming at the Bob Devaney Sports Center. They will not wrestle again until Feb. 3, when they travel to Norman, Okla., to take on the Sooners.

"We kind of did that on purpose," Neumann said. "We wanted the guys to breeze through this part of the season, then work hard for the stretch, right up to the Big Eights.

"Of course, injuries aren't something anyone can count on."

The Huskers lost four starters — three All-Americans — during the past two weeks. Scott Chenoweth, the starter at 167, returned against Wyoming to record a 17-6 major decision. Chenoweth had been held out of competition with separated ribs.

"He was so excited to be back, we had to tell him to relax out there on the mat," Neumann said.

Nebraska won six of the eight matches wrestled.

Neumann said that despite the injuries suffered in the last four duals, he is happy with the progress the team has shown.

"Technically speaking, we're pretty darn sound," he said. "We want to improve on a few little things before the Oklahoma dual, but all things considered, we're looking good."

Friday's match results:

118 — Jason Buxton (NU) won by forfeit.
126 — John Buxton (NU) decided
Lanny Schneider, 6-5.

134 — Jason Kelber (NU) major decision over Mike Donovan, 15-6.

142 — Craig Johnson (Wyo.) decided

Tobin Roitsch, 8-4.

158 — Brett Argeris (Wyo.) decided
Todd Enger, 12-10.

167 — Scott Chenoweth (NU) major decision over Mike Scott, 17-6.

177 — Tommy Robbins (NU) decided
Dave Myers, 5-4.

190 — Double forfeit.

NU punishes OU during rematch

By Todd Cooper

The Nebraska men's gymnastics team punished Oklahoma Saturday night at Ames, Iowa, for a seven-point loss a week before.

"We spanked them," Coach Francis Allen said of the Cornhuskers' 276.05 to 275.25 victory. "To get the highest score on a neutral site against what I think is the nation's best team is pretty remarkable."

Host Iowa State scored 259.6 points.

Nebraska senior Brad Bryan won the all-around with a career-high 56.05 points, followed by freshmen Che Bowers and Dennis Harrison, who scored 55.5 and 55.45, respectively.

"Those three guys are doing the job for us right now," Allen said.

But the Huskers need at least one more gymnast to step forward, Allen said.

"We have to get Burkett Powell and Ted Dimas back," he said. "We'd like to have three guys score 55, and one score 56, so we're almost there."

Allen said the victory removed the sting of last week's loss to the Sooners and New Mexico.

"Last week was kind of a fluke. We weren't ready," Allen said. "This week, we weren't perfect by any means, but we're on our way."
