Royals drop hurt Jackson

HAINES CITY, Fla. (AP) — Bo Jackson, one of the most recognized athletes in the world, was released by the Kansas City Royals on Monday after the team determined his injured hip would not allow him to play baseball this year.

The Royals will ask waivers on Jackson this morning and any team can claim him for $1 in the waiver period that ends 1 p.m. Friday.

"This action is taken with deep regret," Royals General Manager Herk Robinson said. "The entire Royals organization is deeply appreciative to Bo for his contributions to the club. We wish him and his family the very best of health and success."

Dr. Steve Joyce, the Royals' team physician, said Jackson has a fracture-dislocation of his left hip. The injury, sustained in the Los Angeles Raiders' NFL playoff game on Jan. 13, has resulted in cartilage damage in the hip socket.

Robinson said the Royals would pay one-sixth of the $2,375,000 contract Jackson agreed to in February. Jackson would have only made the full amount of his contract if he was on Kansas City's opening day roster.

"It's tragic that this happened," Robinson said. "Bo played a vital and exciting role in the development of sports in this country."

Phillies' Dykstra ordered not to gamble

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Centerfielder Lenny Dykstra of the Philadelphia Phillies will be placed on probation for a year and ordered not to gamble again, the Philadelphia Daily News reported today.

Dykstra said he lost more than $78,000 in illegal, high-stakes poker games.

He met Saturday with baseball commissioner Fay Vincent and was told he would not be fined or suspended on the basis of his testimony last week at a federal trial.

Dykstra will be placed on probation for one year, the News said. If he isn't caught gambling again in that time, the case will be closed.

Dykstra testified against Herbert Kelso, who had been accused in an Oxford, Miss., trial of running poker games. Kelso was acquitted.

Hestermann said.

Moxness kept the Deltas in the game with baskets on three straight possessions to drop the Untouchable lead to 54-50.

But Moxness fouled out with more than four minutes to play. The Untouchables never relinquished the lead. "The key to the game was their big man fouling out," said Tim Farley, a reserve for the Untouchables.

After a scoring drought of nearly three minutes by both teams, five straight points by the Untouchables gave them a 59-50 lead with a minute

A late Delt surge made the game close, but key free-throw shooting by the Untouchables helped improve the squad's record to 10-1.

"We've never played against anyone that short," said Moxness, who ended the game with 24 points and 15 rebounds. "We're used to playing physical, and with their good shooting, it was a shock to us."

Gregg Dahlgren, who scored 26 points to lead the Deltas said, "This was an unbelievable loss. We were looking ahead."

The Untouchables have reached the final eight in the tournament and will continue play tonight.

three-point shooting of George Achola and Mike Stigge. The two combined for 25 of the team's points.

The Hosers jumped out to a 15-point lead in the second half, 50-35, when Stigge hit his second three-pointer of the half. Achola cut the margin to eight by hitting back-to-back treys.

Then Johnson got hot. His three-pointer and a steal and a basket keyed a 13-0 run by The Hosers to put the game out of reach.

"(Johnson) can shoot the lights out," Achola said. "He can shoot the three like nothing I've seen in a long time. But he can put the ball on the floor, drive the lane, and pull up for a soft jumper too."

"He's going to be a good addition to the (Nebraska men's basketball) team."

PRACTICE roundup

Men's gymnastics: The Cornhuskers continued preparations for this weekend's Big Eight Championships. "We're going to put the pressure on," Coach Francis Allen said. Allen said freshman Sumner Darling should be able to compete in the all-around competition. Allen said Darling worked on three events in practice and looked good. "It looks like he's going to be back just in time," Allen said. "If he makes it, we're in pretty good shape." . . . Baseball: It was a positive practice, Coach John Sanders said. "We got outside again," he said. "We also got to hit outside and worked on some defensive situations." It has been more than a week since the team's last game. "The guys are very antsy to get out and play," Sanders said.
