The death of Little Caesar

Christo

Christo said he's usually looking at a five year or less pay-back period for putting extra money into the house.

Low-flush toilets, fluorescent lighting, energy efficient appliances and flow restrictors on shower heads and faucets add to the savings, Christo added. Christo's extra touch, a recycling closet in the kitchen, helps the recycling cause by making it more convenient for the owner.

Christo said the outside will be landscaped like a wildlife habitat area with trees and shrubs that produce berries for animals, along with fescue grasses that require less watering and fertilizing than the usual bluegrasses.

Frank Lloyd Wright also suggested that a home should flow outward and the environment should flow inward, he added.

Christo's project will be part of the 1991 Parade of Homes, May 5-12.
