

Graduation Supplement '91

Graduation ceremonies and attire are parts of age-old traditions handed down from the colleges of Medieval England, said Rod Moore, assistant director of the UNL records office.

"A lot of these things were actually established in Europe, primarily in England," he said. "When Harvard and those kinds of schools were established (in America), they used the same traditions."

See HISTORY on 2