Mould

nal versions.

The highlight of the perfect show for old Mould fans came when he dusted off some Hüsker Dü favorites, breathing life into all-new interpretations of "Chartered Trips," "Makes No Sense At All," "No Reservations," "Too Far Down" and "Celebrated Summer."

Likewise, "No Reservations," from 1987's "Warehouse" LP and Hüsker Dü's best song ever recorded, "Celebrated Summer," from 1985's "New Day Rising" sounded tailor-made for acoustic production. Mould left Virgin Records last spring and has been touring since February on a one-man acoustic show, covering the United States and a large part of Australia.

The break from Virgin was not a clean one.

"They signed Janet Jackson . . . that's part of it. I was having a lot of problems with management because it was the first time I've ever had someone else 'taking care of my affairs,'" Mould said.

"They sort of lost the vision when I was making 'Black Sheets.' They didn't like the idea . . . wanted another 'Workbook,' and it wasn't another 'Workbook,'" Mould said. "You want to do different things. You want to experiment. Sometimes you (mess) up — so what. You've got a whole lifetime. Everything shouldn't hinge on one record."

"This acoustic tour . . . I told them to stay completely away from it, I don't want you anywhere near it. I said, 'I'm not doing any press. I'm not jumping through any hoops. I just want to go out this year and play,'" Mould said. "And after a week of selling out all these gigs with no advertising and no press, I said, 'Why do I need this headache?'"

Mould said that after the acoustic tour was over, he would think about recording another album with one of the several record companies that have been talking to him.

"When I'm done playing, I'll talk to them. I don't want to do press (either) because . . . I don't think I've got that much to talk about . . . and the things that I do think that are important, I'd rather wait until there's a record — something to focus everybody's attention on," Mould said.

END VIOLENCE NOW

In conjunction with Domestic Violence Awareness Month, we have constructed a stop sign located in the City Union (West Galleria Wall) in order to create a statement as well as an overall awareness concerning violence on our campus.

This stop sign is for everyone, MALE and FEMALE, and will represent a collective effort by UNL students and faculty.

You can show your support by anonymously placing one of the provided stickers on the actual stop sign from October 21-Nov. 4.

The purpose of this project is to show that violence of all sorts DOES EXIST at UNL and must be STOPPED NOW.
