Bottoms up

Beer and drinking games were common among college students nationwide during Spring Break. This group of Washington University students took advantage of no classes to fit some extra party time into their schedules.

Nothing beats a Dodge

SPRING BREAK

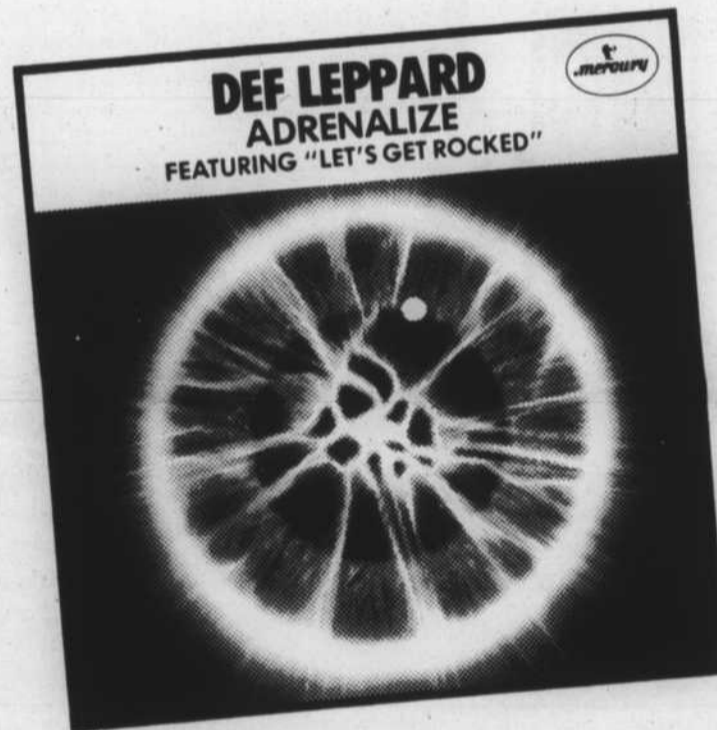

By Alan Phelps
Senior Editor

I know what a Dodge Caravan looks like. But more than that, I know what it smells like, I know what it tastes like, and I know how to turn on the rear-window wiper.

I can name seven other people who share this knowledge. That's what happens when eight weary voyagers literally Caravan across the country in a just-barely seven-person minivan. The Dodge becomes a part of you, a piece of your very soul. You are the Dodge. When we left the Dodge at Newark International Airport, I wept. New Jersey Public Transportation would carry us the rest of the way to Manhattan. The Newark
