Offensive line adds mobility to complement size

By Jeff Singer
Senior Reporter

The Nebraska offensive line is expected to be its usual weighty self this season with a new feature — mobility.

The Cornhuskers, whose starting five offensive linemen average 6-foot-3 and 294 pounds, will mix size with speed in an effort to help the backfield defend its 1991 NCAA team rushing title.

Nebraska offensive line coach Milt Tenopir said the speed on this year's offensive line had impressed him.

"We've worked hard this summer and should be a good bunch, and we've got better mobility than we've had," Tenopir said.

The line, which has three starters returning from last year's 9-2-1 Nebraska team, is ready for the Huskers' season opener Sept. 5 against Utah, Tenopir said.

"The kids look trim and have made their test runs, so we're anxious to get started with it," he said. "We've got the type of kids that can get the job done."

One of those players is junior left tackle Lance Lundberg, a 6-foot-4, 300-pound Wausa native.

Lundberg said experience gained last year should benefit the Huskers.

"We're going to have a little more experience than we anticipated for this year," Lundberg said.

He said the line was anxiously awaiting the upcoming season.

"We're big and strong and hungry, so we're looking forward to it," Lundberg said.

Listed at No. 1 with Lundberg is 6-5, 315-pound sophomore Rob Zatechka. Last season, Zatechka split time with Lundberg at left guard and earned a start in Nebraska's 18-9 win over Arizona State.

Others returning starters in the line include second-team All-American Will Shields, a 6-1, 305-pound senior from Lawton, Okla., at right guard and center, Jim Scott.

Shields, a two-year starter, will anchor the line. Behind him is Joel Wilks, a sophomore from Hastings, and Brenden Stai, a junior from Yorba Linda, Calif.

Scott, who is 6-2 and 265 pounds, is a senior from Ansley who earned honorable mention All-Big Eight honors last season.

Nebraska football coach Tom Osborne compared Scott with some of the best centers who have played for the Huskers.

"Jim Scott probably hasn't been mentioned preseason All-Big Eight," Osborne said. "But we've had some great centers and Jim Scott can play with Jake Young, Rick Bonness, Mark Traynowicz. He can play at that level and is a very, very good football player."

Scott will be backed by Terris Chorney, a senior from Ituna, Saskatchewan. Chorney, who had arthroscopic knee surgery last October, was listed at No. 2 in the post-spring depth chart.

As for the newcomers at the other two offensive line positions, sophomore Zach Wiegert is the odds-on favorite to win the starting job at right tackle.

Wiegert, brother of last year's All-Big Eight left tackle Erik Wiegert, is Nebraska's tallest starter on the line at 6-5 and 310 pounds.

Osborne said the younger Wiegert should play well this season.

Joel Gesky, a sophomore from Midlothian, Ill., will back up Wiegert at right tackle.

Osborne said it's too close to call for Nebraska's other spot on the line, as Chris Zyzda, T.J. Slansky and Ken Mehlin will compete for the left guard spot.
