ing the Jayhawks 11-7 in the first game before rebounding for a three-point victory. Game two was also a struggle for the Huskers, as the two teams exchanged leads until Nebraska outscored Kansas 7-1 to close the game at 15-8.

Nebraska ended the third game and the match on a kill by Husker setter Nikki Stricker to win 15-10.

Stricker, who had 46 set assists in the match, was the key to the Nebraska victory, according to Begor.

"Nikki Stricker had her best match of the year and was real dynamic," Begor said.

Another player who aided in the Husker win was freshman outside hitter Billie Winsett. Winsett made her first start as a Husker and had nine digs in the match.

Other Nebraska players who helped the Huskers improve their career record to 49-0 against the Jayhawks were seniors Stephanie Thater and Eileen Shannon.

Thater had a .438 hitting percentage by registering 19 kills in 32 attacks, while Shannon added 13 kills of her own in 30 opportunities for a .333 hitting average.

The loss dropped Kansas to 15-7 overall and 1-2 in Big Eight play.

Begor said Nebraska's win over the Jayhawks showed that the Huskers are in a winning groove.

"We're playing with a lot of confidence and we're on a roll," Begor said.

Huskers gear up for OSU; Jones returns to practice

From Staff Reports

The Nebraska football team moved inside Cook Pavillion Wednesday in preparation for this weekend's Big Eight opener against Oklahoma State.

I-back Calvin Jones, who missed Tuesday's practice with a sore hip, returned to practice Wednesday and looked good, said Cornhusker coach Tom Osborne.

The only new injury of the day came when junior cornerback Marcus Anderson left early with a sprained ankle.

"We had a good practice and got a lot down," Osborne said.

Osborne also said that facing Oklahoma State's defense would be a stiffer task than last year, when Nebraska rolled up 49 points and 504 yards.

"This will be a better defensive team than we played last year," Osborne said. "There's a lot of guys with experience in their lineup, they've got more speed and they've got some good junior college players."

Husker alumni return for fun-filled weekend

By Nick Hytrek
Senior Reporter

Former Cornhusker baseball players are spending this week dusting off old baseball caps, oiling their gloves and pulling the bats out of the closet.

On Saturday, the Nebraska alumni baseball game will kick off a day of alumni activities for the Husker baseball program. The game will begin at 9 a.m. at Buck Beltzer Stadium.

"This is a chance for us to bring the past into the present," Nebraska baseball coach John Sanders said. "The guys get together and relive the past."

A home run hitting contest will be after the game at 11 a.m. The afternoon will be spent golfing or attending the Nebraska-Oklahoma State football game. A banquet at Schulte Field House will mark the end of the alumni activities.

Some of the former Huskers scheduled to appear include Bobby Benjamin, who has the school record for career home runs. Steve Sjanicek, who is second on the all-time home run list, will also play.

Giving the game a little major league flavor will be Kip Gross, who spent the past season pitching for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"This is a chance for us to bring the past into the present. The guys get together and relive the past."

Of those who played here more recently, Shawn Buchanan and Kevin Jordan will play, as will Mike Zajeski and Tim Seaton, who both played on last year's Husker team. Seaton has since been named an assistant coach at Nebraska.

There usually isn't much of a problem to get former players to return, Sanders said.

"Some have jobs that keep some people from making it back and others have more open schedules so they can make it," he said.

Sanders said it was always fun to see who made it back for the game.

"It's a mixed-bag situation," he said. "We get different people from different groups. It makes for a nice weekend."

And fun is what the alumni game is all about, Sanders said.

"The big purpose is for the guys to get together, have fun and enjoy each others' company. It's certainly a fun weekend, one we always enjoy."

Tonniges

"But it all worked out that I made the varsity and ended up starting."

Tonniges started both her junior and senior year for Lincoln East, earning All-State honors. When colleges came calling, however, she did not take long to decide on Nebraska.

"There were quite a few schools that were contacting me — Big Eight schools," she said. "I went on one other visit to Iowa State."

"But then I came here on my second visit and I had plans to go to Georgia and some other schools, but when (Nebraska) offered me the scholarship, then I accepted."

Tonniges earned a starting spot early in her freshman year and went on to rank second on the team in blocks per game and earn honorable-mention Big Eight tournament honors. That early success surprised her, she said.

"Things went really well," she said. "It was kind of crazy."

"I was not expecting that sort of thing — I just came in and did what I could, and it worked out."

Besides blocks or kills, one thing Tonniges said she was working on this year was being a vocal leader on the court.

"I guess I feel like I'm on the court to encourage other players, to let them know they are doing all right," she said, "and if they make mistakes, to let them know that's all right, we're going to get the next one."

"I can't be quiet. I'm that type of person — I've got to be talking."

And whether she is psyching up the team or making a block, Tonniges said she was glad she came to Nebraska.

"I love playing volleyball, and it's awesome to play at Nebraska because we have such great fan support," she said. "You can't ask for a better program."
