the problem. The obvious solution is to deduce whether or not whomever I'm talking to is or isn't from Nebraska, and then I'll know to say Lincoln or NU.

Then again, that doesn't always work. I told a former Lincolnite I went to Lincoln. He asked me what I was doing in high school (Lincoln High) 60 miles from home.

My main problem is that none of the other campuses are on par with UNL. UNO doesn't have dormitories. UNO and UNK are not Division I-A schools. Omaha doesn't even have doctorates that I know of, and its graduate programs, to my knowledge, are all supervised by Lincoln. And I haven't heard of any academic program that is offered at UNO or UNK, but not Lincoln.

I think the Medical Center should stay with the University system. It's technically a graduate program, similar in some ways to the College of Law.

But the other two campuses should think about changing their names. Maybe UNO could become Omaha U. again. Maybe UNK could become Nebraska State, or something.

66
While talking to relatives in Ohio, I mentioned going to UNL. They asked me what I was doing in Las Vegas.

But until then, I will proudly attend the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. And if no change is ever made, I suppose I'll live. At NU, UNL, Lincoln...

Cyrus' career helped by mysterious voice

According to an Associated Press story, Billy Ray Cyrus — whose debut album "Some Gave All" sold more than 7 million copies — got a jumpstart in his career by a still, small voice he heard while attending a Neil Diamond concert 11 years ago.

"Neil Diamond was saying how if you believe in yourself, and believe in your dreams, then you will have everything you want," the story quoted Cyrus from a recent TV Guide interview.

"Just that second, my voice said to me, 'There's your answer. Use your music to do something positive.' And I knew right then that this was my calling."

At the time Cyrus was a 20-year-old aspiring ballplayer who had never sung professionally. Today he's among the brightest stars of country music.

As unlikely as all this seems, it's undeniable that Cyrus got, and is getting, "everything he wants."

But the question remains: Who told Cyrus to do it? Neil Diamond? God? Just who is responsible for Billy Ray's success? That question may remain forever unanswered as Diamond was unavailable for comment at press time.

And God put this reporter on hold for what seemed like an eternity.

Cheerleaders strut their stuff at UPC festival

A fashion show in the union? That's right. Today from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. in the Nebraska Union, UNL cheerleaders will model the latest fashions from Formal Fantasies, Best Styles Formal Wear, Lawlors, Boogs and County Seat.

B104 will provide the music, and the College of Hair Design will style the models' hair and makeup.

This event is sponsored by the University Program Council Union Festivals Committee.

Activities like this will occur every Wacky Wednesday this semester.
