Brian

LDS,
I don't exactly know what to say or how to say it, but here it goes. The first time I realized that I cared was at our Prom. You were with yours, and I with mine. It's been a couple of years since then and we seem to have grown further apart. I didn't want it to happen, but it did. You are unlike anyone I've ever known. When I find the woman for me, I know in my heart that she will be very much like you. It seems that you have found someone else to care about and once again I stand watching on the sidelines, ever vigilant for the day your heart wants to know mine. The thought of you asleep in his arms keeps me awake at night. I know I'm just kidding myself though, because we'll only be friends, but I can't help it. I only want the best. Even though I may not be your Valentines, you are mine.
DRS

Lee T.,
It doesn't get any better than this...I plead guilty—I'M WHIPPED!

In Nineteen Hundred and Seventy nine, by Cupid's arrow I was struck, it certainly was GOD'S blessing, and not just good luck. August 14th of Eight two, we started out as me and you, a wedding day filled with strife. It's still the happiest day of my life. In Nineteen Hundred and Eighty four, GOD blessed us with our little boy, dark hair and dark eyes, just like you, he's our handsome bundle of joy. Nineteen Hundred and Eighty Seven, GOD sent us a girl straight from heaven, hair of gold and eyes of blue, she's loving and caring just like you. It's Nineteen Hundred and Ninety Three, you'll always be a blessing to me, together as on a family we'll stay, forever and ever, plus one day.
Love, PJP
