The Chancellor's Commission on the Status of Minorities is seeking applications and nominations for individuals to fill five vacancies occurring at the end of the current semester. The mission of this Commission is to inform and advise the Chancellor on all matters affecting the learning and working environments, plus the social climate for ethnic racial minorities at UNL. The Commission meets monthly and is composed of 14 members; four undergraduate students who reflect the four major U.S. minority groups, one graduate student, four faculty, four staff, and one person representing the administrative level. Currently, there is an opening in each of the areas. All applications are requested to be in no later than April 26, 1993. The current commissioners will consider all applications and will then submit to the Chancellor two nominations for each position. He appoints all members. Members serve for 3 year terms, except for undergraduate students who may be reappointed after one year.

If interested, please submit a letter of application to: Chancellor's Commission on the Status of Minorities, 44c Hensick Hall, 0355. Deadline is April 26, 1993.
