

Bowl poll

ida on Nov. 27. If Florida State falls below the Huskers, Nebraska — with a win over Oklahoma — would likely play Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl for the national championship.

Husker players say they ask only for the chance to play for the title.

"I don't care who we play," defensive tackle Kevin Ramaekers said,

"just as long as we get a shot at the national championship if we go undefeated."

Alberts said going undefeated was the second of three Nebraska goals, the first of which was already accomplished when the Huskers clinched the Big Eight title Saturday. Alberts said the third goal was to win the national championship.

Frazier said the voters would be unfair to Nebraska if they gave Florida State another chance at the title.

But, he said, the Huskers won't question the polls until the end of the regular season.

"If they don't give us a chance," Frazier said, "we'll know there's something going on with the voters. It's too late in the season for a team to lose and drop only one or two positions."

"In my opinion, (Florida State) should drop; but I can't control these things."
