

Photos by Julia Mikolajcik/DN

er new two-g said she dy tiny room.

Laing and her future housemate Jessica Cleckner let their daughters get acquainted in the Child Care Center. The girls, Teionna and Kiley, have about a three-day age difference.

Hopkins shows off his baby to classmates at the end of the school day. Whenever Laing has Teionna in the hallways of Lincoln High someone usually coos over her and comments on how pretty she is.

f school in the morning on their way to the Child Care Center. Laing's ride drops her off at the center while she totes school books, bottles and diapers.

Laing, 18, and Hopkins, 16, share a quiet moment with their four-month-old daughter, Teionna.

