West Virginia wants error-free game

By Matt Harvey The Associated Press

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. - The Kickoff Classic may seem like a bowl game, but West Virginia tight end Lovett Purnell sees some big distinctions between it and his team's Sugar Bowl loss to Florida in January.

'For one, we went down there for whole week," Purnell said. "I think we're leaving for the Kickoff Classic a for the couple days before the game, so we don't have to go people, all the ladies that were down there," he said. "We can just relax this week and go home and study a little bit and get ready for Nebraska. West Virginia's players want Sunday's Kickoff Classic game against Nebraska to have a different outcome as well. The Mountaineers had 71 yards in penalties, fumbled on their own 14 and gave up a 52-yard inter-ception return for a score in a 41-7 Sugar Bowl loss in New Orleans.

think we came out real tough against Florida, but some things didn't go our way." fullback Jim Freeman said. "I think we're going to have a different attitude if we get down early against Nebraska than we did in the orida game.

West Virginia's opener four of the past five seasons has been against Mid-American Conference teams. Yet none of the Mountaineers seem to mind opening against No. 4 Nebraska, which is probably 35 points better on a bad day than the best team in the Mid-

"I think if you expect to get better, you have to play better competition, offensive lineman Buddy Hager said. "If that means playing Nebraska or Oklahoma or anybody else, then why not? I think that's the key right there.

agreed.
"This is going to set the tone for the rest of the year," he said. "If we go out and beat Nebraska, I think we'll pretty much have a legitimate chance of win-ning the Big East again. Nebraska's been one of the premier powerhouses in college football for the past decade. I think if we could knock them off, it would be really something special for this program.'

But offensive lineman Calvin Edwards acknowledges the Mountaineers have talked about the dangers of being obsessed with beating Nebras-

"In a game, if they got in front of us we would try not to break down,' Edwards said.

"I guess the same would hold true if we lost the game, if they blew us out or whatever," he said. "I'm sure it would be hard to bounce back. But we still have 11 games after that."

Negotiations continue, but no end's in sight

NEW YORK (AP) - As owners named their new bargaining team Monday, union head Donald Fehr called management negotiator Richard Ravitch a "hatchet man" for owners who shed "crocodile tears" for laidoff workers.

Federal mediators announced that talks will resume Wednesday in the first face-to-face meeting since players struck Aug. 12. But Fehr said he saw no evidence that there could be progress.

"We assume that at the first meeting we'll get the management chorus of 'Solidarity Forever' and 'We Love Dick," Fehr said after meeting with the mediators for about 20 minutes. Fehr, speaking before owners made their announcement, launched into repeated attacks on Ravitch's credibil-

"The owners want to drastically lower player salaries," Fehr said. "Dick's the hatchet man to go and get it done. Dick is not an independent figure here Ravitch has said repeatedly that he feels badly for the tens of thousands of workers laid off because of the players' strike, which entered its 11th day Monday and already has forced the cancellation of 141 games. Fehr, pointing out that Ravitch is getting paid his $750,000 annual salary during the walkout, referred to "the crocodile people at the stadiums."

Mediators will meet separately Tuesday with the delegations from both sides, including the management representatives and players. When the bargaining resumes, five or six members of the management negotiation will join Ravitch at the table—the first direct involvement by teams since talks began on Jan. 13, 1993

Fehr said he couldn't predict when scrious negotiations would begin to end a walkout that already had cost owners an estimated $93.5 million in revenue and players about $48.6 million in salaries.

'It depends on whether the calendar is 'Don't play baseball forever walkout, referred to "the crocodile until the players cave," or 'See how tears Dick cries once in a while for the long it lasts," Fehr said.
