

Soccer team wins respect despite a loss to Creighton

By Matt Olberding
Staff Reporter

After a 3-1 loss to Creighton on Tuesday, the Nebraska soccer team has the potential to pull off some upsets in its inaugural season, Bluejay coach Cathy Klein said.

And Cornhusker coach John Walker is hoping that a string of wins will begin this weekend, when his team travels to Missoula, Mont., to face Montana tonight and Arizona on Sunday.

But Walker would like to have more time to prepare for his team's first road trip. The Huskers opened their first season on Tuesday, losing to Creighton before more than 400 fans at Whittier Field.

Walker said Creighton was a potential Top 20 team with a lot of experienced players who knew how to capitalize on mistakes. Some crucial mistakes his team made were the difference, he said.

And he's hoping those mistakes don't happen this weekend.

But Klein said the Huskers could pose problems for their future opponents.

Klein, who is in her first year at Creighton, had nothing but good things to say about the new Nebraska program.

She said Nebraska looked "awesome" the first 10 minutes of the game and caused her team to make a lot of adjustments to handle the Husker attack.

preseason No. 12 Wisconsin on Saturday, and Klein said her players were under a lot of pressure, which may have caused them to be a little tight at the beginning. But she gave the Husker players credit for being ready to play.

The Nebraska players were physical, Klein said, and they had a size advantage over her team. She also said she could tell the Huskers were not intimidated by her Creighton team.

Klein said she thought her team beat "a good team" that would score a lot of goals and cause other teams to take notice of it.

"They're gonna surprise a lot of people," she said.

Walker said that while he wasn't pleased with the result, he was pleased with the players' effort.

Before the game, Walker said he was concerned about his team's ability to keep up with the physical-style game for a full 90 minutes, but his players proved they were up to the task.

"Overall the girls battled hard," he said.

Football tickets can be picked up starting Monday

From Staff Reports

Students may pick up season football tickets next week before the Cornhuskers' home opener against UCLA on Sept. 17.

Tickets can be picked up at the South Stadium Ticket Office starting Monday.

Also, student football migration tickets will go on sale on Sept. 20. Tickets will be sold for three days, with one-third of the allotment being sold each day. The migration game will be the Oct. 15 game at Kansas State in Manhattan.

Student basketball tickets will go on sale on Sept. 19. Applications for tickets may be picked up Monday. Policy also has been changed regarding the validation of student basketball tickets. In the past, students with validated tickets were able to sit on the floor. Starting this year, all with validated tickets will be directed to upper bench seating.

Huskers

After a Texas Tech punt, it was Phillips' turn to shine. The sophomore from West Covina, Calif., scored on a 56-yard run, the longest of his career, to give the Huskers a 28-9 lead.

Frazier added a 35-yard touchdown pass to tight end Eric Alford early in the fourth quarter to put the game away at 35-9. Both teams added touchdowns in the final seven minutes to close out the scoring.

Phillips said the three backs complimented each other well.

"They were playing the option, and that opened things up for Tommie," Phillips said. "Then they started to play Tommie, and that opened up the middle for Cory."

Osborne said Nebraska's lowest point of the season so far came with just over four minutes left in the third quarter.

Starting free safety Mike Minter, the fastest player on the team, tore the anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee. The sophomore from Lawton, Okla., is out for the season.

Osborne said the Huskers, who ran for 524 yards on the night and posted 612 total yards of offense, have plenty of room to improve.

"We played good football," he said. "We probably didn't play inspired football. We weren't quite as sharp as we should have been."

"We are very mortal, but we have got a long ways to go."

Saving money never sounded so good.
