

bubbles during swimming lessons. Each guard is required to teach both

Assistant Manager, Chad Oliver blows his whistle at a swimmer while watching the pool.

Above: Tally Zimmerman relaxes while on duty. High temperatures and boredom cause lifeguards to become restless while at work.

Left: Luke Edmondson and Chad Oliver relax during the rest break and talk to friends. Rest breaks occur every hour, 10 minutes before the hour.