NU Cross country teams to face tough competition

From Staff Reports

The Nebraska men's and women's cross country teams will face their toughest competition of the season this weekend at the Penn State Invitational.

The women's team will face 11 of the top 17 teams in the country without its senior captain Kris Ellenbecker, who will redshirt the rest of the season due to illness.

"She has had some trouble with asthma, and she and the doctors decided that she probably shouldn't be running right now," Husker coach Jay Dirksen said.

"We have other seniors to provide leadership, but the bad thing is she is the captain," Dirksen said. "I'm sure our team will step up."

Dirksen said Nebraska's competition will be unlike any other competition they have seen.

"This will be a much tougher meet than Minnesota, but the competition is only good for us. Whenever you get a chance to run against teams that are ranked higher than you it is a great opportunity," Dirksen said.

May

reer passing charts with 3,635 yards.

● May has thrown just one interception in his last 249 pass attempts. He has thrown 128 straight passes in 1994 without an interception, and he could break Mike Gundy's Big Eight record of 138 on Saturday.

● The reigning All-Big Eight quarterback, who is a projected first-round NFL draft pick, already ranks fourth in yardage in Big Eight conference history among quarterbacks playing only two seasons.

Osborne said a key to containing May would be a heavy pass rush. Last year, the Huskers got to May only twice.

"He runs out of the shotgun, and they protect him well," Osborne said.

May said he and the rest of the Wildcats were thinking only about Saturday's game, not about Kansas State's 25 consecutive losses to Nebraska.

"I've only played them once," May said. "So I'm just going on my record and not the past. I know I'm 0-1 vs. Nebraska; I'm not 0-25."

May, who transferred to Kansas State from Cal-State Fullerton in 1991, said it would be great if he could end his career at .500 against the Huskers.

"This is my last shot," he said, "so I've got to come out and play the best game I've ever played."
