

Health Center gets more money

Two UNL agencies gained ground on the budget battlefield at CFA's appeal hearing Thursday night.

The Committee for Fees Allocation granted full appeal requests to Nebraska Unions director Daryl Swanson and University Health Center director Kunle Ojikutu.

Ojikutu came to the committee with an appeal request for $27,500 in additional student fees for 1995-96.

The committee had cut his initial increase request of $68,634 to $15,500.

The committee approved the new increase and added $6,750 to help the health center hire a full-time registered nurse.

Ojikutu will act on the committee's suggestion of eliminating the orderly shift from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. This cut will add $18,466 to the funding of a full-time nurse.

The Unions' appeal grant of $2,315 will go toward paying printing and copying costs for the Women's Center and Culture Center, extending hours for the Culture Center.

CFA also voted on Campus Recreation's request for a 3.6 percent operating budget increase.

The Campus Recreation subcommittee proposed taking that increase down to 2.27 percent to reduce the burden on students' pocketbooks.

CFA further cut the increase to 1.9 percent. The amendment was aimed at reducing student wage increases at the recreation center.

ASUN presidential debates slated

By Julie Sobczyk

Several student organizations set tentative times for ASUN presidential candidate debates Thursday at a meeting of the ASUN electoral commission meeting.

Some student organizations decided to co-sponsor debates, making five debates planned before the ASUN elections. The dates, times and locations of the planned debates are tentative.

The first of the five debates has been planned by the Collegiate 4-H, in conjunction with Agricultural Sciences and Natural Resources Advisory Board and Block and Bridle. This debate has been scheduled for Feb. 16 at 2 p.m. in the Nebraska East Union.

A second debate co-sponsored by the College Republicans and the Young Democrats has been planned for February 21 in the Culture Center. The International Student Organization also will co-sponsor this debate.

The Innocents Society, Mortar Board and Golden Key honorary will co-sponsor a debate Feb. 23 in the Nebraska Union.

Shelley Moses, vice president of Golden Key, said the organizations wanted to sponsor an open debate for students to address academic issues.

Residence Hall students will be able to address issues that concern them at a debate sponsored by the Residence Hall Association.

Andrea Casart, RHA president, said a debate would be planned for March 2 in the Abel residence hall ballroom.

This debate would consist of questions and concerns of students who live on campus, Casart said.

The final proposed debate will be sponsored by the Daily Nebraskan on March 6 in the Nebraska Union.

Jeff Zeleny, editor of the Daily Nebraskan, said people could call, write, or stop into the Daily Nebraskan with their questions before the debate.

"We want to ask questions on behalf of students who wouldn't be represented by any group," Zeleny said.

Questions from the Fine and Performing Arts Advisory Board will be directed to the debate.

Jen Jessen, president of the advisory board, said the board would send its questions to the Daily Nebraskan because the organization was too small to sponsor its own debate.

"We are a small organization," she said. "There would be no point in having our own debate because no one would come."

Remaking The Grades

Next Tuesday, the Academic senate will receive information on a new grading proposal.

"This proposal is a much better draft," he said. "It's worded more professionally. It's put in a way that will sell a lot better at the Academic Senate."

Loudon said he predicted ASUN would strongly oppose the proposal at its next meeting.

"If they (the Academic Senate) want to talk about grade inflation and how this won't lower students' grades, then they need to tell a student how his B plus is only worth 3.33."

ASUN would mount an extensive lobbying campaign to kill the proposal, Loudon said.

When the proposal was being considered by the Academic Senate last year, Loudon, who was Government Liaison Committee chairman, mounted a similar campaign that helped defeat the measure.

This year, Loudon said he would do the same to defeat the proposal. However, he said he would not limit his campaign to the Academic Senate.
