Simpson, jury take field trip

By Linda Deutsch
The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — After spending eight months in prison, O.J. Simpson went home Sunday to his Brentwood mansion, but opted against taking a tour of the estate.

Simpson, who was not wearing handcuffs or apparently any other restraint, stood in the front yard of his estate. He decided against joining jurors for a tour of the spot where the bodies of his ex-wife and her friend were found.

On the last stop of their daylong tour, jurors were escorted through Simpson's bedroom, bathroom, closet, kitchen, garage, laundry room and trophy room.

Eight months to the day after the murders of Nicole Brown Simpson and Ronald Goldman, Superior Court Judge Lance Ito convened an unusual Sunday session for the tour.

Traveling in a motorcade of presidential proportions, jurors arrived at the scene. They stepped out of their bus with smoked-glass windows and were escorted in groups of four in and around Nicole Brown Simpson's condominium.

Security was tight as the motorcade of one bus and 13 other vehicles traveled from downtown Los Angeles to Simpson's upscale Brentwood neighborhood.

Streets were barricaded, airspace was restricted to keep news helicopters at a distance and some residents were escorted by police to their homes.

The tour came during the prosecution's presentation of evidence against Simpson. It was intended to give jurors a firsthand look at locations that have or will come up in trial.

Clinton intervenes to boost Mideast peace process

WASHINGTON (AP) — As President Clinton intervened to bolster Mideast peace talks, Israel and the PLO pledged Sunday to proceed with expanded Palestinian self-rule on the West Bank.

The pledge was taken by Foreign Minister Shimon Peres and Nabil Shaath, an adviser to Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yasser Arafat, at a meeting with Secretary of State Warren Christopher.

"We are at a critical moment in the peace process," Clinton said as he presided at a meeting of the Israeli, Jordanian and Egyptian foreign ministers and Shaath of the PLO at Blair House.

"What we have to do now is to have specific achievements, lasting achievements," Clinton said.

The three-hour meeting produced an agreement to establish new industrial free-trade zones in the region, and the president said he would clear the way for exports from those zones to enter the United States duty-free. A joint statement issued at the end of the meeting said "there can be no real peace in the region without security and stability."

Negotiations between Israel and the PLO have ground to a standstill over in a wave of attacks by Muslim fundamentalists and Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's decision to seal off Gaza, the origin of much of the violence.

Christopher acknowledged that the one-day meeting did not provide a solution.

"There was no understanding or conclusion reached on that subject," he said at a news conference.

However, Christopher reported a productive three-way meeting with Peres and Shaath before the Blair House talks.

He said the Palestinians had promised "to preempt terror" and Israel to promptly negotiate redeployment of its troops and to hold elections among the Palestinians.

Christopher called it "a very significant step" that sets the stage for productive talks later in the week between Rabin and Arafat.
