Huskers put shock of loss behind them

By Todd Walkenhorst Staff Reporter

Despite losing at home on Saturday to Colorado, the the Nebraska men's basketball team is only thinking about Kansas State.

The Cornhuskers, 17-10 and 4-8 in the Big Eight, take on the Wildcats at 7 tonight in Manhattan, Kan.

Nebraska coach Danny Nee said the Huskers would try to put the shock of their loss to Colorado behind them, just like they did after losing to Oklahoma State Feb. 18.

"The word shock, I know that's what I felt," Nee said. "The players are very resilient. We left the loss at Oklahoma State in Stillwater.'

But it could be hard for the Huskers to put the Colorado game out of their mind.

"I felt that it was as worse a loss we've had at home," Nee said. "The only other game of that significance was the Grambling loss in double overtime. That was five or six years ago. That's how big of a loss that

Nebraska will be facing a Kansas State team that has struggled under the season," Boone said, "we won't

Wildcats have a 11-13 record and a 2-

10 record in conference play. Husker junior guard Jaron Boone said the Huskers were still capable of achieving the team's season goals.

"It's still our goal to get 20 wins for the season," Boone said, "and get a bid for the NCAA Tournament."

Boone said he had already seen signs that the Huskers had turned the corner since Saturday.

'(Monday) we had a very intense practice, probably the best practice we've had all year," Boone said, "and I think that was a sign we're turning it around."

Boone said that the Huskers could not overlook the Wildcats like they did Colorado.

"They're a good team at home," he said. "It's nobody we can look past. We're starting with them for our NCAA bid."

This may be the last chance for the Huskers to make a run at a fifth straight NCAA Tournament appearance, which makes tonight's game even more important, Boone said.

"If we don't do good for the rest of first-year coach Tom Asbury. The get a bid to the NCAA Tournament."

K.C. Chiefs let Montana choose fate

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) The Kansas City Chiefs came to the defense of Joe Montana on Tuesday, saying the star quar-terback will not be pushed into any decisions regarding retire-

"I talked to Joe 2 1/2 hours ago," general manager Carl Peterson said. "He will make that decision on his own. The media won't make it for him. I won't make it for him. He might have already made it at this particular point. But he will do his own thing. Maybe that's what makes him so special and unique.

Former Husker Zatechka finalist for scholarship

From Staff Reports

Nebraska's Rob Zatechka was named one of 20 finalists for the annual NACDA/Disney Scholar-Athlete Postgraduate Scholarship Tuesday. The finalists were of 58 nominees chosen by the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics and the Walt Disney Company. Fifteen additional finalists, representing all sports other than football, will be chosen in April.

The 35 finalists will then be reviewed by NACDA's Blue-Ribbon Committee. The committee will select 10 winners who will each receive a $5,000 grant to be used toward postgraduate studies.

Zatechka, who was an offensive lineman for the Cornhuskers, had a 4.0 grade-point average.

"It's kind of our role to get each other psyched up to hit routines," Christie said. "Each group pushes the next one to hit the next routine."

He said it was almost like having a meet every afternoon.

"There's definitely some kind of competition within practices," he said. T've seen a lot of improvement since August when everybody got here. The coaches have turned some mediocre routines into great routines that are going to score high.

By April, he said, those routines could be good enough to make Christie's first lifelong dream come true a second time.
