

Look for Daily Specials in the City/East Union Bakeries.

MONDAY
Mug-A-Monday refills 40¢ (any size)

TUESDAY
Chocolate Chip cookie w/ Sandwich $1.10

WEDNESDAY
Blueberry Muffin w/ Sandwich $1.10

THURSDAY
Brownie w/ Small Drink 99¢

FRIDAY
60¢ Popcorn w/ Small Drink 99¢

Before you sail away on your Spring Break...

stop by our port for you Dental Checkup.

Patients seen by scheduled appointments.

Call Today! 472-7495
University Health Center
Dental Office

UNL is a nondiscriminatory institution

Schuyler plant has shootings, immigration raid over weekend

SCHUYLER (AP) — A man who failed to show up in court on a charge that he assaulted his estranged girlfriend shot the woman and her new boyfriend to death before killing himself in the parking lot of a meatpacking plant.

The shootings happened about half an hour after the second shift ended at 10 p.m. Friday at the Excel Corp. plant, company spokesman Mark Klein said.

The killings also came hours before federal immigration officials were scheduled to raid the plant with the help of Excel's management.

Forty INS agents and 30 other police officers converged on the plant Saturday morning. About 125 workers were taken by bus and van to the Columbus armory for possible deportation, said Michael Went, deputy director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service's regional office in Omaha.

Few people were in the parking lot at the time of the shootings but no one else was injured, Klein said.

Carmen Panameno, 40, and Jose M. Martinez, 41, were shot as they left the plant after finishing their shifts, said Colfax County Attorney Richard Seckman. They had worked there less than two years, co-workers said.

The gunman, Edwin A. Escalera, 41, then used the handgun to kill himself, said Seckman, who declined to release further details because police still had witnesses to question.

Each was shot once in the head, said Seckman, who calling the shootings an apparent double murder and suicide. Autopsies will be done Monday in Sioux City, Iowa, to confirm the cause of death, he said.

Escalera was not one of the 1,600 employees of the plant on the edge of this small town 60 miles west of Omaha.

Escalera and Panameno once considered themselves common-law husband and wife, but Panameno was now living with Martinez in a white stucco home across the street from the Colfax County Courthouse, officials said.

Escalera had a history of violence against Panameno. He had served 90 days in jail on a third-degree assault charge for beating her in 1993, Seckman said. When he was released on probation, Escalera violated a court order that he stay away from Panameno as a condition of probation, Seckman said. He was sentenced to another 90 days in the county jail, Seckman said.

On Jan. 12, Escalera was arrested again on third-degree assault on Panameno, but was released on bail, Seckman said. When he failed to appear at a court hearing, a warrant was issued for his arrest, he said.

The shootings were unrelated to the immigration raids, Seckman, company and immigration officials said.

About 800 second-shift workers were asked by their supervisors to report for a shortened, four-hour shift Saturday even though the meat-processing plant was not scheduled to be in operation, Klein said.

He said the company had worked with the federal Immigration and Naturalization Service for at least a month and the plant employees were ordered to work as part of the planned raid.

The raid followed an INS audit of Excel records that determined about 200 workers had lied about their U.S. citizenship or used fraudulent documents to gain employment, Went said.

Stress Management Workshops with Relaxation Training

For more information call Sue at 472-7450.
Counseling & Psychological Services

| | | |
|---------------|----------|---------------------------------------|
| TOPICS | March 7 | Self Hypnosis |
| | March 14 | How Addictive Behaviors Affect Stress |
| | March 28 | Biofeedback |
| | April 4 | Open Discussion |
| | April 11 | Preparing for Finals |
| | April 18 | Handling the Stress of Finals |

Tuesdays 3:00 - 4:30
Room 338
Nebraska Union

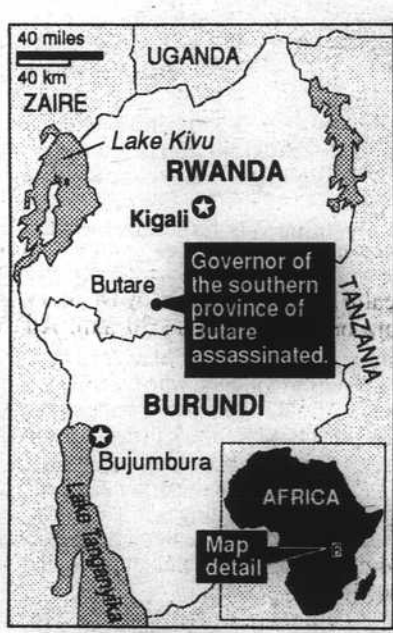

Rwandan governor killed

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — The governor of Rwanda's southern province of Butare was assassinated in an ambush, the prime minister said Sunday. He blamed soldiers of the defeated Hutu-led government living in neighboring Zaire.

Pierre-Claver Rwangabo was shot Saturday night near the town of Butare, the provincial capital near the border with Burundi. Prime Minister Faustin Twagiramungu said by telephone from Rwanda's capital, Kigali.

Rwangabo's son and driver also were killed, Rwandan radio reported.

The prime minister said the killing of Rwangabo, a moderate Hutu, is believed to have been carried out by soldiers of the defeated Hutu-led government who have sought refuge in Zaire. An estimated 30,000 former soldiers and 10,000 allied militiamen are among some 1 million Rwandan refugees in the camps.

But a U.S. human rights group official said extremist Tutsis were more likely suspects. They had accused the governor of being too soft on Hutus accused in the massacres of an estimated 500,000 people, mostly Tutsis, from April to June last year.

After defeating the Hutu-led government last year, Tutsi-led rebels formed a government that includes moderate Hutus, such as Twagiramungu and Rwangabo.

Rwandan radio said the governor was returning home from Kigali when the assailants stopped his car by blocking the road with a tree. More than five gunmen in civilian clothes opened fire.

Woman found in lions' pen, cause of death undetermined

WASHINGTON (AP) — The medical examiner was still trying to determine Sunday what killed an unidentified woman whose partially devoured body was found in the lions' pen at the National Zoo.

And police said they were working on figuring out how the woman got over the 9-foot wall and 26-foot moat that separate zoo visitors from a pair of African lions.

"All information about the autopsy results will be released by the medical examiner and the medical examiner only," said police spokesman Sgt. Joe Gentile. "Anything from any other source is not an official cause of death."

A spokesman for the medical examiner said no information would be released before Monday.

The Washington Post reported Sunday that the victim appeared to be in her mid- to late 20s and was carrying identification showing she was from Little Rock, Ark.

Homicide Detective Sgt. Clarence Muse confirmed that identification was found on the body, but said police had not determined whether it belonged to the victim. He said he could not confirm it was issued in Arkansas.

A zookeeper going to feed the two lions housed in the compound found the victim's mutilated remains around 7 a.m. Saturday.

The death was the zoo's second lion-mauling incident. In 1958, a 2 1/2-year-old Canadian girl, Julie Ann Vogt, was mauled and decapitated as a caged lion pulled the girl through the pen's vertical bars.

Whoever said "the best things in life are free" probably had a trust fund.

It's everywhere you want to be.®

Daily Nebraskan

FAX NUMBER 472-1761

The Daily Nebraskan (USPS 144-080) is published by the UNL Publications Board, Nebraska Union 34, 1400 R St., Lincoln, NE 68588-0448, Monday through Friday during the academic year; weekly during summer sessions.

Readers are encouraged to submit story ideas and comments to the Daily Nebraskan by phoning 472-1763 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The public also has access to the Publications Board. For information, contact Tim Hedegaard, 438-9258.

Subscription price is $50 for one year.

Postmaster: Send address changes to the Daily Nebraskan, Nebraska Union 34, 1400 R St., Lincoln, NE 68588-0448. Second-class postage paid at Lincoln, NE.

ALL MATERIAL COPYRIGHT 1995 DAILY NEBRASKAN